Giant Bombers in Crushing Assault On Nazi Industry

Invasion Coast Pounded—Ruhr Steel City of Mulheim Raided

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Hundreds of giant R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. bombers crushed the Ruhr steel city of Mulheim in a moonlight attack Tuesday night, while twin-engined bombers pounded the invasion coast late today to keep the Allied aerial offensive rolling at a mighty pace.

Coastal residents of Folkestone also cheered when a formation of American heavy bombers roared back to their British bases after a cross-Channel expedition, the target of which has not yet been disclosed officially.

The R.A.F.'s blockbuster raiders smashed and burned targets at Mulheim despite desperate German resistance which took a toll of thirty-five bombers, seven of them Canadian.

Late today British Bostons and Typhoons, escorted by fighters, attacked targets at Meaulte, St. Omer and Maupertus in France, destroying two enemy planes without loss to themselves.

The R.C.A.F. took part in last night's attack on Mulheim. Canadian veterans said that it was the most concentrated attack of their experience.

Sergt. Willard Hoppus, rear gunner of Lacombe, Alta., said he could see the glow of fires "until we were almost at The Netherlands coast on the way home."

SECOND DAY ROUND-THE-CLOCK

The day attacks brought to forty-eight the consecutive hours of round-the-clock bombings.

Mulheim, in the bomb-pocked German Ruhr, was slammed by hundreds of four-engined bombers, with bombs starting many fires that "soon joined together" and sent flames leaping hundreds of feet high, the Air Ministry announced. One pilot reported concentrated fires "for about two square miles."

The new fires started there brought from the German radio the statement that "what the population of these areas (the Ruhr) had to endure lately is unbelievable for everyone who has not witnessed such a raid."

The Ruhr has taken a fearful pounding. The Ministry of Information said "there have been at least 550 attacks on targets there by the R.A.F." They include 116 raids on Cologne, fifty-six on Essen, twenty-six on Dortmund, fifty-three on Duesseldorf, sixty on Duisberg-Ruhrport, sixty on Hamborn, eighty-five on Hamm, twenty-two on Krefeld and forty-four on Gelsenkirchen.

Aerial photographs taken by attacking American planes Tuesday disclosed widespread damage both at Huls and Antwerp, it was authoritatively reported.

Nazi Lines Broken in Two Areas

Soviet Reconnaissance Units Take Prisoners

LONDON, June 23 (CP).—Russian reconnaissance units, feeling out the strangely quiet enemy, broke through German lines in two areas today to attack and take prisoners, the Soviet midnight communique said tonight.

On the central front west of Moscow, after a preliminary softening by massed Russian artillery, a patrol broke into the German trenches, the communique said. In the engagement which followed more than 100 Germans were killed and prisoners were taken.

The Moscow radio, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said Soviet bombers made "strong and devastating" attacks on the railway junction at Pskov, southwest of Leningrad, Tuesday night. Other attacks were made on German airdromes.

An earlier Russian communique said twenty German planes were destroyed on the ground behind the German lines near Leningrad. In the same area seventeen German planes were shot down from formations attempting to attack, while the Russians lost nine planes, it said.

THIRTEEN BLOCKHOUSES ARE DESTROYED

On the ground in this sector the midnight communique said 180 Germans were killed. Soviet artillerymen shelled enemy positions and reported thirteen German blockhouses, five pillboxes and five machine guns destroyed. Artillery and mortar batteries also were silenced by the Russian big guns.

Two German self-propelled barges were reported sunk in the Black Sea by Russian warships, while in the Minsk district near Poland, well behind the German lines, Russian guerrillas were reported to have fought off a German punitive expedition for several days, inflicting heavy losses and forcing the group to retreat.

Majority of Fianna Fail May Be Lost

Has Lead in Early Returns

DUBLIN, June 24 (Thursday) (CP).—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail was leading early today in returns from Tuesday's Dail Eireann election, but gains by minor parties caused fear among Government supporters that the party which has been in power since 1932 might lose its parliamentary majority.

Success of the new Farmers' party, which had won seven seats at 3:15 a.m. and the loss of six seats by the Fianna Fail, shook the Government supporters' confidence, as at that time, loss of two more seats would make it impossible for the Prime Minister's party to hold a clear majority in the Dail.

The Prime Minister was returned in East Clare. William T. Cosgrave, head of the Fine Gael, and William Norton, leader of the Labor party, also were re-elected. Most of the Government leaders retained their seats, but there were some casualties among front-bench members of the Fine Gael.

Gen. Richard Mulcahy, vice-president of the Fine Gael, was defeated by the trades union leader, James Larkin. Prof. J. M. O'Sullivan, Minister of Education in Cosgrave's last Government, and J. A. Costello, former Attorney-General, were defeated.

James M. Dillon, who campaigned on a programme to aid the Allies without sending troops out of Eire, was elected in County Monaghan, on the border of Northern Ireland. Dillon, who disagreed with the Fianna

New Struggle Now Plagues French Group

ALGIERS, June 23 (AP).—Vexatious rivalries began today to plague the new permanent military committee, just created in an effort to unify French military power, and a new struggle between Generals Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle was in prospect on the issue of recruiting troops.

With the French armies of liberation divided in allegiance between two commanders-in-chief, Giraud and de Gaulle, followers of Giraud indicated they would demand that recruiting be on the territorial basis, thus preventing the Fighting French organization from taking manpower in this area.

Followers of De Gaulle complained "a freeze out" was being worked against them and also that men escaping from France now were being brought into Giraud's North African army despite their wish to serve under De Gaulle.

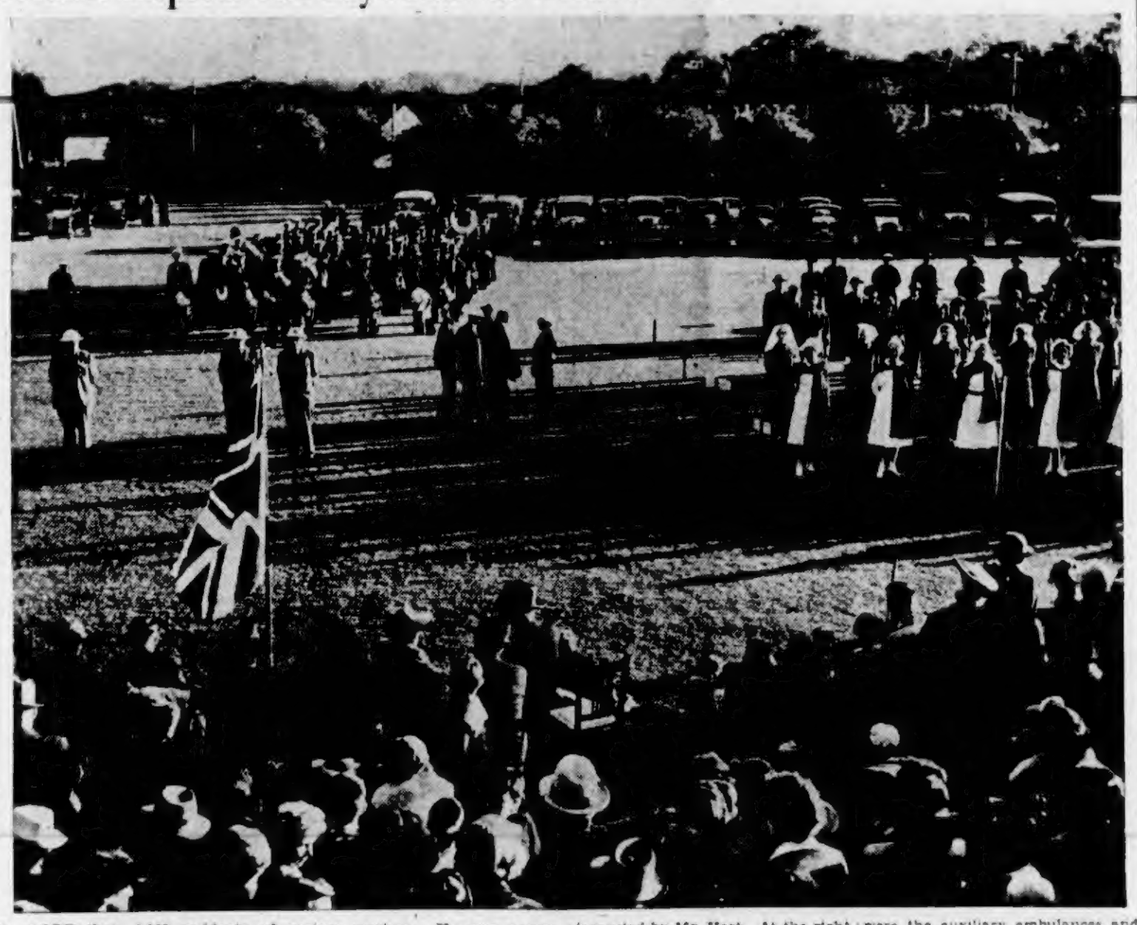
One Giraud follower called "a very miserable solution" the compromise which had left Giraud in command of troops in North and West Africa and De Gaulle in command in other empire territories.

Capital of Sardinia Practically Deserted

BERNE, Switzerland, June 23 (AP).—A Rome dispatch to the newspaper Pester Lloyd said today that Cagliari, capital of Sardinia, whose population normally is approximately 80,000, is practically a deserted city. More than 60,000 residents, it was asserted, have fled their bomb-smashed homes.

Citizens who are still in the wrecked seaport are attempting to gather the remains of their possessions before leaving, the dispatch said.

Premier Inspects Oak Bay A.R.P. at Windsor Park



MORE than 1,500 residents of Oak Bay gathered at Windsor Park on Tuesday evening to witness the inspection of the total personnel of the municipal A.R.P. service by Premier John Hart, seen in the above picture talking to officers of the various services. He was accompanied by Reeve W. L. Woodhouse and A. E. G. Musgrave, A.R.P. controller.

At the left is the R.C.N. Band, which entertained the spectators during the evening, and which was inspected by Mr. Hart. At the right are members of the nursing service of Oak Bay North, with members of the warden service behind them, and the auxiliary fire squad at the rear.

Forming a background to the ranks, which included 700 persons, were the auxiliary ambulances and fire trucks of the A.R.P. service, seen drawn up in even lines at the rear of the field, with their drivers and crews standing at ease beside them. A similar number of workers stood at the southern end of the field, beyond the view of the camera.

In the absence of the King, who was in the Mediterranean area, Her Majesty congratulated the recipients and said the King had asked her to express his regrets that he was not able to be present.

Her Majesty wore a large spray of pink roses on her beige dress for the occasion. She was hatless.

Nazis Guarding Norwegian Dams

LONDON, June 24 (Thursday), (CP).—The Daily Express in a dispatch from Stockholm reported today that special Gestapo detachments strengthened with picked troops are guarding Norwegian dams which the Germans expect may soon be attacked by the R.A.F.

The whole region around Koeswans Dam in the southern part of the Hardanger Vidda district has been closed and surrounded by barbed wire, The Express said.

The Norwegians have been ordered to live elsewhere, it added.

DISCUSS NEWSPRINT

MONTREAL, June 23 (CP).—Representatives of the United States Office of Price Administration and Canada's Price Board met here today to discuss newsprint prices, with particular reference to "recent cost increases experienced by both the Canadian and American mills." A brief statement said that discussions between the two bodies were continuing and that there was no announcement "as to their conclusions."

No-Confidence Motion Defeated In Australia by Single Vote

CANBERRA, June 24 (Thursday) (CP).—The Labor Government of Prime Minister John Curtin today defeated by one vote a motion of no-confidence brought by the United Country Party of A. W. Fadden.

The vote came after two days of debate in the House of Representatives. It was 27 to 26.

The vote brought on by the Country Party's criticism of the Government's labor policy which, it contended, had resulted in an increasing number of work stoppages in war industries and an increasing rate of absenteeism among war workers.

The vote averted the necessity of an immediate election, but it was believed Curtin would seek an early dissolution of Parliament, looking toward an election as the one vote left his Administration with little security.

BULLETIN

VICHY MEN SHOT

LONDON, June 24 (Thursday), (CP).—The German radio broadcast a Paris dispatch today declaring that two high French officials who were Vichy collaborationists had been shot in Algiers. Further details were lacking and the report had no confirmation from any Allied source.

Federal Troops Withdrawn From Aircraft Plant

DETROIT, June 23 (AP).—After keeping a watch over production for more than four hours, Federal troops were withdrawn tonight from the aircraft division of the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant where they had been stationed as a precautionary measure.

Meantime, mass prosecutions of 500 misdemeanor and felony cases proceeded as Governor Harry F. Kelly and Mayor Edward J. Jeffries announced they planned to hunt out the "real inciters and assaulters" of Monday's bitter race rioting which took a toll of twenty-nine dead and more than seventy injured.

SIR EDGAR BOWRING DIES

LONDON, June 24 (Thursday) (CP).—Sir Edgar Bowring, eighty-four, twice High Commissioner of Newfoundland and knighted in 1915 for his work in organizing the Newfoundland war effort, died yesterday. He was High Commissioner from 1918 to 1922 and in 1932-34.

LONDON, June 23 (CP).—Sources of the Polish Government reported today another outbreak of German terror in Poland and said more than 500 men and women on the Nazi blacklist had been shot in recent weeks and at least 2,000 others, whose fate was unknown, had been arrested.

His Majesty Inspects the Eighth Army

Montgomery Greets The King at Tripoli

TRIPOLI, June 21 (Delayed), (AP).—The King spent today inspecting the Eighth Army and men of the Fighting French and United States Air Forces, who have been fighting with the desert forces.

General Sir Bernard Montgomery greeted the King when he came ashore at Tripoli from a Fighting French motor launch after the cruiser Aurora brought him from Malta.

The King visited Malta during the week-end as a part of his tour of the North African and Mediterranean battle fronts.

All civilians were excluded from the streets of Tripoli during the King's visit. Houses were shuttered and soldiers with tommy guns patrolled the roads or stood on guard on rooftops.

Aberhart's Estate Valued at $41,535

EDMONTON, June 22 (CP).—The late Premier William Aberhart left an estate with a net value of $41,535, it was shown today when his will was filed at the Edmonton Courthouse for probate. His widow, Mrs. Jessie M. Aberhart, who is now living in Vancouver, was named sole beneficiary and executrix.

NEW CLUB BURNS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 23 (CP).—The newly-opened Allied Merchant Services Club here, built and equipped at a cost of $150,000, was almost completely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin tonight. The club had been in operation only a few days.

Details of Manpower Are Given

Youths Now Liable To Transfer Orders

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell today told the House of Commons the Canadian manpower policy was the best "that can be devised," and revealed youths of sixteen, seventeen and eighteen have been made liable to compulsory employment transfer orders.

In a detailed statement made as the House began its review of 1943-44 Labor Department estimates, Mr. Mitchell described the distribution of manpower and womanpower resources, the employment of Japanese, conscientious objectors and prisoners of war, the demands of the armed forces and war industry and steps taken to ensure agriculture, mining and other vital activities were provided with workers. He warned that shortages of labor would continue as long as the war.

Mr. Mitchell called the manpower policies good, but spokesmen for opposition parties who followed, launched sharp criticism of the programme and its administration.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that if there had been equality in the calling of men for compulsory military training across Canada to December 1,

Sank Submarine Off Columbia in December, 1941

TACOMA, Wash., June 23 (AP).—Major Everett Holstrom said in an interview here today that a Japanese submarine was sunk off the mouth of the Columbia River the day before Christmas, 1941, and that his plane sank it.

Major Holstrom, later a member of Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's Tokio raiders, said he was stationed at McChord Field, near here, and temporarily on submarine patrol duty at the time.

He said that on the morning of December 24, 1941, he and three other patrol pilots sighted the submarine about forty miles off the Columbia, and a bomb from his plane sank it.

Major Holstrom's account confirmed reports which circulated in Seattle and Tacoma at the time but which military authorities would not then approve for publication.

He said tonight that after the sub sinking, the patrol could not get back to McChord Field "because of weather conditions, so we headed for Seattle."

WHOLESALE ASSASSINATIONS

NEW YORK, June 23 (CP).—The Germans have assassinated "the whole male population of two Polish villages," the B.B.C. said tonight, in a broadcast recorded by C.B.S. here. "The number of Polish villages which have suffered the same fate as Lidice in Czecho-Slovakia now amounts to 344," the B.B.C. said.

R.A.F. Pounds Northern Italy

Home-Based Bombers Cross Alps to Aid Mediterranean Craft

LONDON, June 24 (Thursday) (CP).—Switching the direction of their attacks after four successive night assaults on Germany, home-based R.A.F. bombers swept across the Alps to blast targets in Northern Italy last night, British authorities announced today.

It was the first such assault on Italy since April 18, when a big fleet of four-engined British bombers took the long skyway across Europe to hammer the naval base at La Spezia.

The home-based air armadas thus joined Allied airmen of the North African and Middle East Commands in subjecting the Italian mainland to a whip-sawing three-way assault.

Although the attacks from the Allies' Mediterranean bases have been concentrated mainly on Southern Italy, American four-motored bombers battered La Spezia on June 5 doing heavy damage to naval vessels in the harbor.

DEAL HEAVY NEW BLOWS AT RAILWAYS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 23 (AP).—Dealing heavy new blows at Mussolini's railroads—a major land lifeline in repelling invasion—R.A.F. Wellingtons smashed marshaling yards at Salerno Monday night with two-ton blockbusters, and Mosquito bombers from Malta spread havoc over railways in Italy and Sicily last night.

The Wellingtons, following up a Monday daylight raid by American bombers on rail targets in Salerno, made bulls-eye hits in the freight yards and barracks in the junction town on the principal electric railway running from Naples to the toe of Italy.

Many fires were started in the yards, an Allied Headquarters communique stated. All the attackers returned.

The speedy Mosquito bombers from Malta kept up the hail of damage last night. Marshaling yards at Sibari were bombed and gunned with cannon shells hitting an engine, trucks and station. Sidings at Lecata and a factory at Trebisacre were bombed, a British communique announced.

Allied light bombers based in the Middle East attacked and sank small enemy vessels off the Greek coast, a Cairo communique said, and all the Allied planes returned safely.

PREPARE FOR NEW ASSAULTS

From North African bases, other Allied airmen flew out yesterday in patrols and reconnaissance preparing for new assaults, and headquarters announced that coastal air force planes sank a medium-sized enemy vessel off the southeast coast of Sardinia Monday night and attacked barges.

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, June 23.—A double air assault—by night and day—opens a new phase in the battle of the Ruhr. United States bombers for the first time have been able to penetrate into Germany and bomb a rubber factory in the Ruhr area. But the Royal Air Force's bombing of Krefeld has surpassed anything so far launched on the Ruhr, 700 machines having dropped five bombs of 4,000 pounds each every minute.

The shock was tremendous, "worse than six attacks like those made on Coventry." What was probably the heaviest bomb load of the whole war was carried by United Kingdom and Canadian airmen to flatten out a huge area of the important industrial centre of Krefeld.

Krefeld joins in the ruin of Bochum, Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Cologne and Bremen. Great damage, says The Times' aeronautical correspondent, has also been done the Le Creusot Armament Works of France, the rolling mills, armor plating shops and other industrial buildings being wrecked.

In the Mediterranean a similar earthquake bombing has been kept up by Wellington aircraft against Naples. An arsenal went up in flames and oil dumps exploded. Switch yards essential for troop movements were smashed into craters.

Italian airmen are now using bombs against British and American aircraft, dropping them from clouds. Results have been poor.

Reviewing Royal Air Force activities Sir Archibald Sinclair, Air Minister, said their victory at El Alamein had had its effect in every area of the war since then.

U.S. Bombers Blast Cruiser At Macassar

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 24 (Thursday) (CP).—In what was believed to be the second longest raid of the entire war for land-based bombers, a large force of United States heavy bombers smashed at Macassar, Dutch Celebes, for the first time yesterday, heavily damaging a Japanese cruiser.

The bombers flew 2,000 miles to carry out a devastating attack. It was the largest force of bombers to be sent against Celebes.

They carried more than thirty-eight tons of incendiaries and high explosives, among them 2,000-pounders.

The cruiser was moored to the dock. It was enveloped in smoke from direct hits, possibly by the 2,000-pound bombs.

A cargo ship in the harbor also was hit.

One of the bombers was seen to crash along with a single Japanese fighter, the only one to attempt interception.

Ruhr Valley Is Virtually Military Zone

Press Tries to Reassure People

BERNE, Switzerland, June 23 (AP).—The Germans have made the Ruhr Valley virtually a military zone as a result of the devastating raids by Allied bombers which have been pounding the area in day and night attacks, newspaper reports indicated tonight.

The correspondent of The Neue Zuerchter Zeitung wrote from Berlin that "the authorities are taking the air war with the utmost seriousness; of this there can be no doubt."

Two important effects of the bombings, the Nazi press made clear, was that newspapers were permitted to speak of the damage in superlative terms and decrees were issued to require further sharing of homes still intact.

The emphasis on the damage and danger from air raids was believed to stem from a tour of the devastated areas by Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

The press, while acknowledging the difficulties in combatting the attacker, sought to assure the people that new weapons shortly would offset the danger.

But a Berlin dispatch to The Basler National Zeitung said "it is a question whether a new defence weapon is to be used against the Allied air forces."

Italian newspapers, meanwhile, wrote of the damage wrought by the Naples raids, but said the death toll was low because "people fled into numerous holes, grottoes and caverns."

McGill Examiner Appoints Music Secretary Here

Appointment of R. H. Cox, L. Mus., McGill, as the new secretary for Vancouver Island of the McGill School of Music and the Conservatorium, was announced last night by R. de Havilland Tupper, vice-director of the conservatorium and secretary of the School of Music of McGill, who is in the city to examine students of McGill here.

Mr. Cox was appointed to the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. J. Watson, and was made on the recommendation of Mr. Tupper, who spoke highly of the intensive work Mr. Cox has done; it will mean increased activity for McGill School of Music in Victoria and the Island.

Mr. Tupper has been a lecturer at McGill for more than a decade, and is a well-known figure in music circles; he is conductor of the symphony orchestra and a string orchestra in Montreal. He is a member of the Tupper Family Association that traces its ancestry back to 1637, but his own branch can be traced back to the fifteenth century.

"I took up orchestral music because to me it is the most satisfying work I could find; you get right inside it," said the examiner, who spent five years studying at the Royal College of Music in England. "That was when I began orchestral work and derived great pleasure from it and from the men I worked with, it certainly gives one a deeper understanding of music." It was during his years in the old country that he met Sir Edward Elgar, whom he came to know quite well.

Commenting on the class of entertainment put on for men in the services, he expressed regret that they were not given better music: "In England a small group of musicians went around with a few string instruments, giving concerts at the R.C.A.F. posts; the men liked them so much that now a full symphony orchestra travels regularly to each post and their coming is an event with the men. I think our men here would appreciate a little good music."

Mr. Tupper said that his orchestra in Montreal gave two concerts yearly, one with the string orchestra and the other a full symphony performance. The choir was just beginning and it was difficult to get good tenors because of the war, but he hoped to continue.

From here the examiner will go to Fernie where there is a large class. Students at Vancouver and Revelstoke have already been examined. There are some 400 students following the McGill music course.

Oak Bay Meeting

A meeting of the Oak Bay Municipal Employees' Association will be held tomorrow night, Friday, June 25, at 7:30 o'clock. Business of importance is slated for discussion and a full attendance is anticipated.

Young Soldiers Prepare for Full Careers in Active Army

AN opportunity for qualified young men between the ages of seventeen and eighteen years to become efficient soldiers, and to prepare themselves for a fuller life after the war, is now being offered by the "Young Soldier" plan of the Canadian Army.

Some forty boys are already taking this training in Victoria, learning the trades of motor mechanics, (fitters, motor vehicles), electricians, draughtsmen, clerks, and machinist fitters, as shown in the accompanying pictures.

The object of the plan, according to Lieut. Ray C. Grant, of the No. XI Vocational Training School, Work Point, is not to interrupt the education of boys now in school, but to take those who have left school permanently and give them thorough training in soldiering.

To qualify, boys must have passed their seventeenth birthday but not their eighteenth, be category "A," must have completed grade 8, and must pass the Army "M" test successfully.

The young soldiers live in camp, and have all the privileges of regular soldiers. They are paid 70c per day until they reach the age of seventeen and one-half years, after which they receive $1.30 per day.

RECEIVE FULL ACADEMIC EDUCATION

Apart from free clothing and medical and dental care, the boys are given a thorough study of academic subjects, such as mathematics, science, English, current events and military information.

In addition to this background, during basic training they learn drill with and without arms, fieldcraft, and practise with Bren guns, mortars, grenades, and anti-tank rifles.

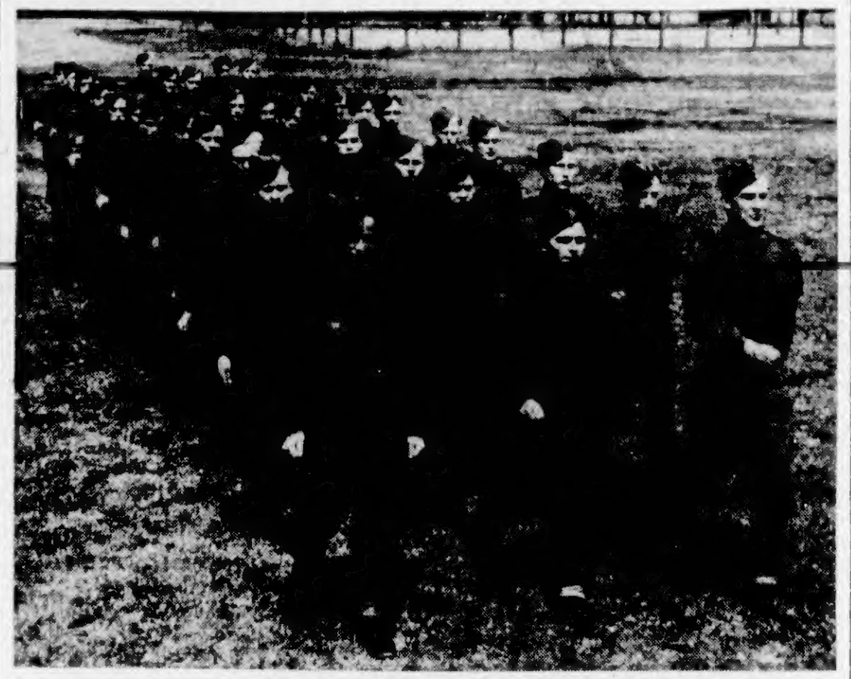
Although the young soldiers now train at Work Point as members of the Canadian Active Army, they will soon move to modern new quarters on Topaz Avenue, which are near completion. There will be a recreation hall suitable for moving pictures and lectures, a study hut, and their own dry canteen. The buildings are of the latest type used by the army.

With accommodation at the new centre for 150 men, the unit is now seeking at least seventy more qualified candidates to take the training. Enlistment may be made at the recruiting office, Bay Street Armoury.

TRADE TRAINING IMPORTANT IN COURSE

Trade training, considered to be one of the most important aspects, is given by civilian instructors under the direction of Col. Frank Fairey, Youth Training Official for British Columbia, who is assisted in supervision here by George Anstey. The first three months of their training is of an explanatory nature, and the remaining ten months are spent studying one of the trades listed.

As soldiers, the boys come under the direction of Capt. W. G. Black, G.S.O. 3, Trade Training, Pacific Command, under Major K. K. Mr-



Naughton; O.C. of No. XI Vocational Training School. Directly responsible for the training of the young soldiers in Victoria are Lieut. H. H. Massy, Lieut. J. O'Neill, Lieut. Grant, who will direct the Topaz Avenue unit, and a staff of twenty N.C.O.'s and men.

The boys cannot be sent overseas until they are nineteen years of age, but military officials point out that by starting their training early, they will be fully trained soldiers when they are ready to serve, and in the position to perform responsible duties.

In order to round out their lives while in camp, and to put them in the best of health and spirits, a comprehensive and varied physical training and recreational programme has been worked out for the young soldiers. Every effort has been made to permit the boys to advance both in the army and in civilian life after the war.

Various aspects of their usual day are revealed in the pictures at the right. In the upper photograph the entire group of Victoria boys is seen on the march, and in the centre they are learning the elementals of metal trades in the technical shop at Victoria High School.

In the lower picture Pte. J. C. McDonald is found guiding the operation of a shaper at the high school shop.

Counting of the vote was slow due to the intricacies of the proportional representation system which Eire uses, but it was felt generally that the Fianna Fail, which has been in power since 1932 when it succeeded the Fine Gael, would hold control of the Dail Eireann when the final standing is announced, possibly Saturday.

From Europe

Generals Giraud and De Gaulle, under some pressure from the Allies, have at least reached an agreement over the reform of the French Army. All French forces are to be united and both generals are to be commanders-in-chief, each with his own chief of staff.

The Committee of Liberation is now considering a plan for creating the Consultative Assembly, provisional in character.

An obvious defence of the new arrangement, says The Times' special correspondent in Algiers, is that real unification of French forces has been postponed for an indefinite period. However, General Giraud is left free to carry out what reforms he thinks desirable, when General De Gaulle can evolve what he thinks best for his troops. In time his new ideas will doubtless be adopted by General Giraud's officers.

General Giraud's continuance as commander-in-chief is acceptable to the Allies, while General de Gaulle's forces, which have been equipped by Great Britain, can continue their happy association with British troops everywhere outside General Giraud's area.

Defending his Government against a vote of confidence from the Opposition in the House of Representatives at Canberra, Premier Curtin said the battle of Australia had been won, though the battle of the Pacific was far from won yet. The Opposition had alleged inefficiency in the conduct of the war and mistakes in economic and financial policy, ministerial incapability and lack of experience.

Much heat was displayed in the course of the debate over charges that decisions had been made to abandon a greater part of Northern Australia to the enemy.

The Premier said that so poor were Australia's defences at one time that the premiers of the three states had come to Canberra to arrange evacuation of Queensland, New South Wales and Western Australia, and the commander of the home forces general staff had said only vital areas of the Commonwealth could be defended.

Italy Blasted

Reconnaissance pictures, the Northwest African Air Force Command announced, disclosed that 40 per cent of the Royal Arsenal at Naples had been destroyed by Flying Fortresses and Wellingtons in heavy smashes at the great seaport and rail centre for Southern Italy.

The photographs showed severe damage in the industrial region, at least three direct hits on a torpedo factory, smashing of large portions of an air frame works, hits on artillery barracks, motor transport depots, twenty-five hits on the central station and railway sidings, ten more upon locomotive sheds, and others upon the roundhouse, a turntable and freight cars. The entire motor transport and stores depot was ruined at nearby Cancello.

Other pictures showed heavy damage by American bombs to railway objectives in Salerno, thirty miles southeast of Naples, and that at least forty cars had been destroyed by an attack of medium bombers near Palermo, with damage so great that no rolling stock had moved along there since the attack.

One of the most daring young officers in Britain's "Little Navy," Lieut. Philip Gould, twenty-six, has been killed in action. Gould, skipper of a motor torpedo boat, once found himself between two enemy convoys, escorted by E-boats. He calmly decided to throw in his lot with the E-boats, which failed to recognize him in the darkness.

Malcolm Campbell, forty-nine-year-old ship's carpenter, of Campbeltown, Argyllshire, can tell children that he slept in the room in which Napoleon died. It happened at St. Helena, where he spent four months after being torpedoed.

Find Reason For Trouble In Castoria

New Medicine to Be Sold About Sept. 15

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP).—The mystery of what caused the presence of a nausea-producing irritant in Fletcher's Castoria has been solved, Sterling Drug, Inc., makers of the product, announced yesterday it resulted from "a change in the chemical characteristics of the water, harmless in itself, in combination with the reduced sugar content."

The combination, the firm said, "interfered with the normal aging process."

It said the sugar content reduction was made to "conserve sugar under wartime conditions."

The company, which on May 5 recalled all bottles and warned consumers and retailers against use and sale of the medicine, said manufacture now is being resumed and new Castoria bottles bearing a green band would be put on sale about September 15.

Allied Airmen and French Guerrillas Immobilize 200 German Trains Every Day

Underground Workers Also Wreck Power Plants and Factories to Add to Nazi Grief

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP).—The combination of R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. air raids and railway sabotage inside France has been immobilizing about 200 trains daily, according to information reaching here from German-occupied Europe.

Both the airmen who swoop across the English Channel and the French guerrillas operating behind enemy lines concentrate on crippling transportation, a headquarters spokesman said today, particularly by putting railway locomotives out of commission. Many locomotives beyond range of the marauding flyers succumb to the boiler-wrecking tactics of the saboteurs or are wrecked in derailments engineered by guerrillas.

One of the most successful derailment jobs recently was carried out by guerrillas on the line between Nevers and Chagny, in Central France. Fifty-two Germans were killed and 150 injured in this wreck, and traffic was blocked for several days. Another derailment on the same line, the reports said, upset a troop train moving soldiers to the Russian front.

WRECK POWER PLANTS, FACTORIES

The guerrillas also have been active in the wrecking of power plants, water works and factories. From March 15 to April 15, the reports said, there were no fewer than 122 acts of sabotage in Savoy, chiefly in power plants.

The reports also mentioned a shut-down of the Gnome et Rhone aviation engine plant at Limoges on May 28 because of destruction of the central transformers. Rubber-reclaiming factories in the same area were out of production for six months because of wrecked boilers.

New reprisals against Frenchmen regarded as agents of Germany also were listed in the reports. These included the stabbing to death of the secretary-general of the Vienne Department of Jacques Doriot's Fascist Parti Populaire Francais, identified as Dr. Michel Guerin; the fatal shooting of Mayor Din of Pierrefitte, near Paris, and the assassination of two French judges who had condemned Frenchmen to death for sabotage. Both these judges, the reports said, were previously notified by letter that they would be killed for treason.

T-2 Income Tax Form Must Be In by June 30

Only Questionnaire Part May Be Delayed

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP).—The "T-2 questionnaire," introduced for the first time this year and supplementary to the T-2 corporate income tax return, may be filed by July 31 without penalty but the corporate income tax return itself must be filed by June 30, Revenue Minister Gibson announced yesterday.

The extension of time for filing the T-2 questionnaire will be given only when the questionnaire is accompanied by an auditor's certificate.

Yesterday The Canadian Press erroneously reported that the T-2 form filed by business firms in connection with their income tax could be delivered July 31 instead of June 30 without penalty. The extension of one month applies only to the new "T-2 questionnaire" which must be filed by companies along with the income tax form.

"A considerable amount of work is entailed in the preparing and certifying of this questionnaire," said Mr. Gibson, "and it is considered that by extending the time for filing it considerable relief will be afforded."

The T-2 questionnaire is to be filed in conjunction with the T-2 form, the minister added, and "I understand in consultation with the accountants that it is the T-2 questionnaire which has been holding them up, because it requires so much care in preparation, and has to be certified by the accountant."

Surveying For Link To Highway

Hart Says B.C. to Spend $6,000,000

VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP).—Premier John Hart told members of the Northwest Trade Association meeting here today that the British Columbia Government is prepared to spend $6,000,000 on the immediate construction of a road linking the southern part of the province with the Alaska Highway.

Four survey parties are now working out of Prince George, B.C., to determine the best possible route, he told delegates from a dozen centres in British Columbia, Washington and Oregon. He stressed, however, the difficulty of obtaining construction equipment and supplies if it were decided to carry out the project now.

The association adopted a resolution expressing appreciation for Mr. Hart's offer, but stating that it favored the "B" route through British Columbia to Alaska. Members pledged themselves in the resolution to urge both the Canadian and United States Governments to assist in the construction of the "B" route.

WOULD FOLLOW THE "B" ROUTE

The "B" route would connect with the Alaska Highway at Watson Lake, on the British Columbia - Yukon boundary, and could then follow the existing highway to Whitehorse. Two of the routes now being surveyed into the Peace River area would follow the "B" route for some distance.

Mr. Hart also announced British Columbia is willing to spend $6,000,000 to $7,600,000 on a railway connection between Quesnel and Prince George if United States military authorities would undertake construction of a railway north of Prince George. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway, owned by the British Columbia Government, now runs from Squamish, B.C. to Quesnel.

Discussing a highway link with the North, Mr. Hart said "we are not going to sit by if the United States military authorities do not build this road." Even to postpone action until after the war would result in a steady flow of business being established east through Edmonton.

"We are prepared—the money is available," he said. "We have immense resources in the North of coal, oil potentialities, timber, water power. There should be strong efforts to hold this business west of the Rockies. There must be a railway—there cannot be full development without it.

"I think," he added, "that in time the 'B' route highway will not be sufficient. The 'A' route (farther west) also will have to come. There will be development to warrant both."

WHY YOU SHOULD Buy FURS Now!

One very good reason is that it is extremely unlikely that you will be able to choose from such a wide selection for a long, long time to come. And another is that every time we have to go into the market and buy new Furs the price is always up. As compared with today's replacement prices, the prices of any of our finest Furs represent a very decided saving. These are easily ascertained facts that make it wise, far-sighted economy to purchase now the Fur Coat you want for Next Winter. Grotesque Art in Vancouver Exhibit

VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP).—Five hundred grotesque color drawings of a fantastic design such as have never been seen in Vancouver are being displayed this week by the diminutive Glasgow-born artist who signs himself simply "Scotty."

Fish forms, eyes, noses, floral motifs, animal claws, foliage—all presented in riotous color with black ink cross hatching to form light and shade—combine to give the abstract designs a grotesque, almost pagan quality, reminiscent of jungle and Indian art.

An ex-antique dealer, who "paints from the heart as the mood overtakes me," Scotty, as he prefers to be known, has recently returned from Toronto.

PHIL RIZZUTO MARRIED

NORFOLK, Va., June 23 (AP).—Phil Rizzuto, twenty-four, former shortstop for New York Yankees and now a seaman first class in the United States Navy, was married today to Miss Cora Esselborn, twenty-four, of Newark, N.J. Rizzuto is leading the Norfolk Naval Training Station baseball team in hitting.

The Poles and Scots have reversed a long tradition of friendship since war started. In 1640 there were 30,000 Scots in Poland, but in 1940 there were 30,000 Poles in Scotland, said Sir John Anderson, Lord President of the Council.

Practice Blackout In Eastern States

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP).—An air raid test and practice blackout covering all or part of seven Eastern states and lasting four and one-half hours ended at 9:29.5 p.m., P.D.T., tonight, with the sounding of the all clear for the southern part of New Hampshire.

The drill, in which twenty-four United States Army Flying Fortresses participated along with anti-aircraft artillery and searchlights, began with the sounding of the first audible blue signal in the vicinity of Norfolk, Va. No guns were fired.

As the bombers began their northward flight the areas of Eastern Virginia, Eastern Maryland, the District of Columbia, Eastern Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and the southern part of New Hampshire were blacked out.

Proposed B.C. Timber Survey Well Received

The proposed survey of all phases of the lumber industry in this province as announced recently by Premier John Hart is receiving widespread approval. Although Mr. Hart stated clearly that he intends first of all to canvass the several interests involved before proceeding to appoint a board or commission, at least two groups or classes have volunteered their wholehearted support in working out any plan or programme which may be beneficial to the province as a whole.

According to advices from Vancouver, headquarters of the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League, that organization looks upon the survey as a necessary step from which a long-range policy of timber conservation will rise before long. President H. H. Stevens, of the Conservation League, Major Harold Brown, a director, and Frank J. Burd, president of The Vancouver Daily Province, and for many years identified with the development of tourist traffic in British Columbia, are among the Mainland spokesmen who have expressed high approval of the plan.

G. Hamilton Harman, speaking for the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the absence of President J. V. Johnson, voiced the opinion that Mr. Hart's announcement was the forerunner of "a thorough investigation into all phases of the British Columbia lumber and logging industry which will have the full support of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce." Mr. Harman is also vice-president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, which recently advocated at Nanaimo just such a step as Mr. Hart has taken.

W. J. Clark, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and a director of the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League, felt that in the course of its investigation the committee would not overlook the conservation of beauty spots throughout the province, especially timber along streams and lakes.

"Cathedral Grove is but one of the districts I have in mind," said Mr. Clark. "Preserving timber along streams not only keeps up the water level and conserves fish. It also creates tourist attractions and properly fostered, the tourist industry will always be a major asset."

Two Meatless Days Per Week in Trail

TRAIL, June 23 (CP).—By unanimous agreement cafes and restaurants in Trail and Rossland will have two meatless days each week and will serve steaks only Mondays and Wednesdays, it was decided here today. This is the first community in British Columbia to take this action.

This move was made necessary, restaurant men explained, because public eating places had been put on the same basis as individuals in that they were now allowed only ten meat coupons for every 100 meals. The new regulation goes into effect here Friday.

"Well, did you get any surprise presents for your birthday?"

"Yes, rather. I got a book from Bill I lent you last year."

REDUCE WIRE TOLLS

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP).—A charge of six cents a word on messages between Los Angeles and Chungking, China, was ordered tentatively today by the Federal Communications Commission in a report concluding that the present charge of eight and one-half cents a word by Press Wireless, Inc., for ordinary telegraph service was "unjust, unreasonable and unlawful."

SAMMY JAY ARGUES WITH HIMSELF

You know what it means to argue, of course. Everybody knows that. It is to try to make others think as you do, while they try to make you think as they do. It is to try to prove that you are right and someone else is wrong. When you argue with someone, you are said to be having an argument.

Now, arguments sometimes are very good things and sometimes very bad things. People who can argue without losing their tempers often do a great deal of good, because in this way they bring out all the truth about a matter. But very, very often people who argue lose their tempers and the argument becomes a quarrel, and the quarrel becomes a fight, and it is all very dreadful and a great pity.

Sammy Jay likes to argue, but Sammy is one of those who is apt to lose his temper unless he finds he is getting the best of the argument. The only safe thing for people like Sammy is for them to argue with themselves and no one else. Sammy does that once in a while. It is a pretty good plan. If more people argued with themselves, they would avoid a great deal of trouble in this world. They wouldn't do a great many of the mean things they do.

When Sammy Jay left the Old Pasture, where he had found the new house of Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy, and had guessed the secret which it contained, he flew back to the Green Forest in a great hurry, so as to spread the news that Reddy Fox not only had a new house over in the Old Pasture, but also some babies. He hadn't seen those babies, but he was just as sure that they were there in that new house as if he had seen them. He knew that Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were doing their best to keep it a secret, and he chuckled long and he chuckled mischievously as he thought how he would tell everybody he met and upset Reddy and Mrs. Reddy, and, perhaps, worry them and make trouble for them.

Now, it was quite a distance to the Green Forest, and because he met

"Of course I'll tell everybody Reddy's secret," said Sammy to himself

no one on the way Sammy had time for considerable thinking. He got to thinking of how he would feel if someone should find his nest and tell everybody just where it was and so, perhaps, bring danger to the helpless babies there. The more he thought of this the more uncomfortable he felt. He stopped chuckling and flew to his favorite thinking tree. It is a tree in the Green Forest where Sammy is very fond of sitting alone by himself. A great deal of mischief has Sammy planned in that tree. And there, too, he has planned some of the good deeds which he has done, the deeds which prove that Sammy isn't really bad at heart at all.

"Of course I'll tell everybody Reddy's secret," said Sammy to himself when he was comfortably seated in his tree. "I ought to. Peter Rabbit ought to know it. Danny Meadow Mouse ought to know it. Bob White and Mrs. Grouse ought to know it. They ought to know it because Reddy Fox, not to mention Mrs. Reddy, will hunt a great deal harder than ever before to get enough to feed those youngsters of theirs. Peter and Bob and Mrs. Grouse and a lot of others ought to be put on their guard."

"But you don't have to tell where Reddy's home is," said Sammy's other self. "You know perfectly well that if you tell this to others they will tell still others, and sooner or later it will reach the ears of Reddy's enemies. Then something may happen to those babies."

"That isn't any business of mine," declared Sammy.

"Yes it is," replied his other self. "If anything happened to one of Reddy's babies because you had told the secret of where they are it would be wholly your fault. You would be the one to blame."

"I wouldn't care," snapped Sammy. "There are too many foxes anyway."

"Yes, you would care," insisted the other self. "You have found out Reddy's secret by spying, and you know what people think of spies."

So for a long time Sammy Jay argued with himself and got quite provoked with himself and tried to decide what he ought to do and what he ought not to do. It was very perplexing. Don't you think so?

Refused Possession Of Her Own Home

VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP).—Magistrate Bruce Boyd ruled today that Mrs. Christine Macleod, a landlord who wanted possession of her home now occupied by twenty-three persons, should not have her request acceded to. He said the need of the landlord was not as great as that of the tenants, and that to grant her possession would "only add to the ever-increasing housing chaos in Vancouver."

Mrs. Macleod sought to obtain the premises from Andrew Lakusta, tenant, and it was pointed out that, while there were twenty-three persons living in the home, and seven of them engaged in war work, the landlord's family consisted only of a husband and one son, recently returned from active service.

MALTA HONORED

The visit of His Majesty to the George Cross Island of Malta, sixty miles from Sicily and 140 miles from the mainland of Europe, emphasizes in a practical fashion the degree of control that the Allies now exercise over the Mediterranean. There, in Victory Street in Valetta, where not a single building remains undamaged, King George was greeted by the cheers of a fighting people and of a victorious garrison.

His Majesty was shown the George Cross, the first British award in this war to be given to a territory, and the most treasured possession on the islands of Malta, Gozo and Comino. He toured the quays and the waterfront, saw gunposts and airdromes; and looked out over the twin horizons, north and west, from which at one time Axis planes came at hourly intervals every day and on most of the nights. Overhead, British squadrons held the air in an unchallenged grip while the Royal visit was being made.

Thus honored, Malta received a little of the distinction and credit that is her due. More than 1,000 enemy planes have been knocked down over the small group of islands, or to sea from their rocky margins. More than 2,000 air raids were sustained by the Maltese people, and the British garrison. Never once in all of the last three and a half years have the people of Malta faltered. Always they knew that liberty was worth more to them than even life. It was an historic moment when the grantor of the George Cross, named after his father, could see it in its new setting, surrounded by the men and women who had earned it.

"NEVER AGAIN!"

It is a proud slogan in a war against aggression that an enemy must be brought to terms of unconditional surrender. That is the promise made by Mr. Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt and subscribed to by all the United Nations. It is a goal that will be accomplished, but what then? Can nations imbued with aspirations for their place in the sun, such as Germany and Japan, be kept in subjection indefinitely? Would that be possible without military occupation of their territories and outside domination of their ways of life? Would any international police force make it within the bounds of accomplishment? Can the heart of Germany be changed, or the heart of Japan? Some think it possible, but the course of history has a tendency to disprove the forecasts and the longings of even the most distinguished and far-seeing statesmen. In the Great War exactly the same purposes were in view as are being heralded so widely during the present struggle. It was at a Guildhall speech on November 9, 1914, that Mr. H. H. Asquith, Great Britain's then Prime Minister, said:

"We shall never sheathe the sword, which we have not lightly drawn, until Belgium receives in full measure all and more than she has sacrificed, until France is adequately secured against the menace of aggression, until the rights of the smaller nationalities of Europe are placed upon an unassailable foundation, and until the military domination of Prussia is wholly and finally destroyed."

These pledges, for pledges they were at the time, proved unavailing. Belgium has again been ravished; France lies at the foot of the conqueror; the smaller nationalities of Europe, one by one, have fallen into the maw of the aggressor; Prussian militarism became more rampant once more in September, 1939, than it had ever been in all its history. It remains to be seen to what extent and in what way the freedom-loving peoples of the world have profited by the lessons of the Great War and its aftermath. The solution they have to find is one fraught with almost interminable difficulties if history is not to go on repeating itself. A defeated Germany and a stricken Japan are but incidents in the first chapter in a story that would have for its title "Never Again."

DISTRIBUTION OF SUGAR

There is not a great deal of light that is thrown on the situation by figures given in Parliament on the sugar question. In 1941 the amount of refined sugar used in soft drinks was 91,724,610 pounds; in 1942, 73,075,217 pounds. In 1941, the amount of raw sugar used in the making of wines was 12,962,988 pounds, and in 1942, 12,077,275 pounds. For candy 65,489,836 pounds of refined sugar was used in 1941 and 51,222,345 pounds in 1942. It was further stated that the estimated quantity of sugar to be used in 1943 by commercial firms is as follows: For soft drinks, 66,000,000; for wine-making, 9,100,000, and for candy, 48,000,000 pounds. The amount allocated to housewives for home-canning purposes is 100,000,000 pounds.

The above information was given in answer to questions. No information was sought about the amount of sugar being allocated to commercial firms for jam-making and other preserving during the current year, and, for some reason, this was not volunteered. It was pointed out that no statistics are available about the amount of sugar used by housewives for canning purposes during the years 1938-1941, but that in 1942 housewives "applied for and received 106,000,000 pounds for home-canning." This year the allotment is 100,000,000 pounds, or less than last year, although the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in its propaganda urged housewives throughout the Dominion to engage in canning as much as possible so as to relieve other food shortages. The result of this appeal brought a ready response. Thousands who had not engaged in canning before decided to do so as a patriotic duty. They made their applications for rations based on their needs. Some are in a position to engage in canning to a greater extent than others and have been doing so for many years past. Now the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has, in an approximate way, with some exceptions, put every household on an equal footing by merely allowing ten pounds of sugar per person for home-canning. That authority must have had its tongue in its cheek when it asked people to engage more fully in this form of conservation, since such a purpose cannot be carried out because of the limitations imposed.

INTENSIFIED ATTACK

Spadework done by fighter squadrons of the Royal Air Force in almost incessant attack against German defences along the coast of Europe for the last two years is beginning to bear a ripe fruit now. Hardly a day has gone by in that period in which British, including Canadian, planes were not over enemy territory, drawing his defence machines and his fire. Although figures are not available, this wastage in German machines and German pilots is beginning to tell, now that the time is at hand for attacks of much greater consequence. The Luftwaffe is on the defence, and its defences are being badly punctured.

Back of the present day and night attacks on the Ruhr and Rhineland, carried out by the heaviest of British and United States bombers in mounting groups of up to 700 machines or more, there has been a gradual but consistently steady dispersal of the German fighter screens. Although Allied bombers are taking from five to eight per cent losses on some individual raids, the sum total is less than that. At such a figure these bombing attacks are self-sustaining, entirely apart from the great havoc they have caused to the enemy. That is visible.

In such cases where interception by the Luftwaffe is attempted it is being punished heavily. Flying Fortress machines in their daylight attacks have rolled up a sizable score against a baffled enemy. British Mosquitoes and Spitfires have proved more than a match for the new German Focke Wulf 190, and it was on this machine that the enemy was relying to guard his head in the air. From the union of British and United States air formations has come a strength that neither would have had singly. This strength is now being turned against an enemy definitely weakened in the air. The result is visible in continuing destruction of his homeland, at a cost the Allies can pay.

DRAFT WOMEN FOR WAR SERVICE

It has remained for The Winnipeg Free Press one of the most ardent supporters of the Liberal Government at Ottawa, to suggest that the draft system should be applied to women to solve the recruiting problem of the women's auxiliary services. There are 25,000 women in these at present and many thousands more are needed but volunteering now is a mere trickle. The Winnipeg Free Press is right. There should be equality of service and sacrifice among women as well as among men in wartime, and women, who are asking for such equality in the pathways of peace will be the first to realise the force of this argument. The Free Press says: "The application of the draft to men has been the major factor in recruiting since late in 1940. Recruits since then have been obtained with little trouble. Why not apply the same technique in getting women recruits?"

There is no substantial argument that can be advanced against this, certainly none among those women who claim equal rights with men. The fact is that, despite an intensified recruiting campaign altogether insufficient women are coming forward for enlistment with the auxiliary services. When the movement was started, late in the day, it was thought that it would be otherwise, that in this department at least there would be no lack of patriotism. The contrary is proving to be the case. The remedy, obviously, lies in the draft system. It is not pleasant to think that should be the case but this struggle, as no other, has demonstrated that conscription of man-power, and of woman-power as well, is the only way in which total war can be undertaken. It is because only partial measures in such conscription have been enforced in this country that there is still no all-out effort in Canada to defeat the enemy.

On Tuesday, in the absence of His Majesty, the Queen held an investiture at which a number of Canadians were decorated. The fact, with particulars of those honored, was recorded in the "London Calling" broadcast of B.B.C. news at 3:45 p.m. (Pacific Daylight Time) on Tuesday. For some reason or other it was not considered worthy of inclusion in the cabled news to this country until yesterday; in other words, the newspapers here received it a day late. This is poor work on the part of the news agencies concerned, and the more especially on the part of accredited Canadian newspaper correspondents in London. It is not the first instance of belated news of especial significance to this country. It should be the last.

Politicians and others talk endlessly of reconstruction, of social security, of a "new order," and most of all of making peace permanent. Mention of what is the mainspring of all these endeavors is, for the most part, omitted, for, as Mr. Keith Thomas writes in The Christian Century:

Have we forgotten? Did we ever know,
Amidst the sea of words in which we drown,
How deathlessly, two thousand years ago,
The recipes of peace were written down?

Great Britain has a wartime sausage, presumably devised for conservation of something that went into that mystifying edible before. It is now composed of 37½ per cent of meat, 7½ per cent of soya and 55 per cent of filler or national flour or water, and seasoning and flavoring.

FROM: THE CITY OF THE SOUL

In the salt terror of the stormy sea
There are high altitudes the mind forges;
And undesired days are hunting nets
To snare the souls that fly Eternity.
But we being gods will never bend the knee,
Though sad moons shadow every sun that sets.
And tears of sorrow be like rivulets
To feed the shadows of Humility.

Within my soul are some mean gardens found
Where drooped flowers are, and unsung melodies,
And all companioning of piteous things.
But in the midst is one high terraced ground
Where level lawns sweep through the stately trees
And the great peacocks walk like painted wings.

—Alfred Douglas.

I have not the slightest feeling of humility towards the public, or to anything in existence but the Eternal Being, the principle of beauty, and the memory of great men.—John Keats.

O night
And storm and darkness, ye are wondrous strong,
Yet lovely in your strength, as is the light
Of a dark eye in woman.

—Byron.

COMMANDO

"Commando," the word which came to prominence in the South African War, is probably the most hated word in the English language with the Hun. At Vaagso, at Spitzbergen, at St. Nazaire, at Dieppe, at lonely lighthouses on the coast of France, and at date-palmed deserts in the North African desert special service troops trained for amphibious operations have walked in coolly on the enemy when he was not looking. Such momentary inattention has cost the Hun much, in sum. More than that, it has left a fear in his heart. Although "Combined Operations," Hilary St. George Saunders' fine book written for the British Government, has already been ably reviewed in this paper, there are some phases of the work that this department would like to mention.

* * *

To begin with, there are the special service troops themselves. Two of them, standing quietly in the doorway of a French lighthouse, manned by a German ex-naval reservist, caused that sturdy custodian to faint. They revived him, as one would an hysterical child, and added him to the rest of the lighthouse guard, all taken prisoner. Somewhere, no doubt, in a German controlled publication after that there must have been a notice to mariners stating that the lighthouse in question was dark, but would be operated again at the earliest possible moment. What hurt the Hun most, however, was not to know how the lighthouse became dark. That must have galled. The prisoners, by the way, expected to be shot, and were quite puzzled when they were not.

* * *

Or take that affair where special service troops went looking for Rommel, at his own headquarters behind the German lines in Egypt. It was their misfortune that the German general was not at home. He might so easily have been. As it was, however, a handful of British officers and men redecorated the ground floor part of the German field headquarters with hand grenades, penned its general staff into one small room in the dark, and retired carrying their viable wounded with them. Some very brave men, unfortunately, had to be left behind, mortally wounded or dead. A dinner engagement, or some other mission out, saved Rommel by a hair.

* * *

Shifting to the sea side of the picture, the raid upon St. Nazaire must have given the Hun chills for many weeks. It smashed the only French dock on the Atlantic coast that could handle the battleship Von Tirpitz. It left German garrisons on shore shooting at each other forty-eight hours after the affair was over. It afforded the spectacle of little, unarmored craft—with more dead and wounded than living on board—patrolling up and down a German-held estuary to draw the enemy's fire away from the main lockgates and what was happening there. Most of them were sunk. The landing parties for the most part were stranded, but not before the mission of the raid had been accomplished, and the German garrison stood very completely on its head. It took three days for the methodical Hun to restore order at St. Nazaire, and German post commanders must have lied over their reports for weeks following that.

* * *

Mr. Sanders makes it very clear that amphibious operations are three dimensional. At Dieppe, a British flying umbrella camped over the German stronghold all day; guarded a small-boat fleet with almost shut-out protection; roared at roof-top height against batteries, gunners and men; held back German reinforcements on the roads; and last, but not least—stiff-armed the Luftwaffe in a mortifying defeat of the pick of Hun fighters in that and adjacent areas. If Allied field commanders had flown perhaps Dieppe would have been another story. From the air, between smoke screens, the course of the action was clear. The planes even laid the smoke screens on request.

* * *

There are, however, much deeper implications behind what Great Britain has done since 1940, with her special service troops. The real meaning of the story lies in the fact that it was, and is, a preparation for something much greater to come. Amphibious operations today can only be measured on the scale of landings such as that on 1,000 miles of the coast of North Africa, in which 850 vessels were used to convey the attacking force, in the swift, one-piece bite which the Allies took out of Italy at Pantelleria, without a shot fired on the ground; and in that vastly greater operation which the Hun is expecting even now. If Mr. Sanders' straightforward and manly book means anything, it means that when the Allied blow falls on Germany it will be the real thing, and no heel-tap. This time, the Commando dagger will be poised at Germany's heart, and the Battle of Europe in real earnest will be on.

* * *

One cannot close such a book without many lingering reflections. A Great Britain undaunted in the dark of her chilliest night—Col. Merritt, V.C., hatless, waving his helmet on a bullet-swept bridge at Dieppe—the able seaman who stood to his gun through St. Nazaire until filled by about the last shot from the shore—the Huns pouring murderous volleys into themselves as the ship at the lockgates blew up—the midshipman who was promised a boarding "party," and armed himself with a shillelagh of steel. For here men lived, and fought, and died, without trace or thought of self—so that one day the world would be free. In silence, my mind goes back to other men—men with small red patches on their shoulders—who twenty-five years ago met the same Hun, and in much the same way. They sleep, one fancies, the sounder for the knowledge that the breed persists.

Manpower Details

1942, there would have been no shortage of manpower on Western Canadian and Ontario farms.

NOT CONSIDERED AS HUMAN BEINGS

Mr. MacInnis said that workers had not been considered as human beings or as members of the community entitled to a voice in determining the conditions under which they should work.

Mr. Hansell said the Government had failed to use foresight in dealing with the coal emergency and providing earlier the manpower needed to maintain this essential industry.

Earlier Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Mitchell's claim the manpower policy was the best that could be devised was "a fine example of extravagant over-statement."

The Minister based his statement on this primary declaration:

"No apology need be made for the selective service programme of Canada. There are and will continue to be labor shortages, emergency conditions will arise which will necessitate emergency measures, but we are engaged in a total war and things cannot be as normal as in peacetime.

"In fact if we did not have labor shortages we could not claim to be waging total war."

He said that 5,100,000 men and women out of a total population of 8,720,000, aged fourteen years and over, were in the armed services or at work.

He said new regulations have been issued making youths of sixteen, seventeen and eighteen years of age liable to compulsory transfer orders in employment in the same manner as men in the age groups liable for compulsory military training.

A wide range of non-essential industries has been listed by the Labor Department, and from these men in the age groups liable for compulsory military training may be transferred by order to other more essential employment. This authority now may be applied to the youths.

TO PROVIDE HELP IN WOOD CUTTING

The minister announced also that to provide manpower for fuel-wood cutting operations, Selective Service officers have been authorized to give compulsory direction for the employment of men between sixteen and sixty-five in this work.

A similar provision has been made for direction to employment in fishing and fish processing to meet "the pressing needs" of the fishing industry of the Maritime Provinces and "to bolster production of this necessary food."

This compulsory direction also is applicable to men in non-essential industry.

A new regulation forbids the employment of a teacher in any other occupation unless by special permit. This regulation has been made effective following representations from provincial departments of education.

Mr. Mitchell praised workers on farms for their production achievements attained in spite of reduced labor forces, and said policies to maintain the farm working strength were being effectively applied.

The percentage of military training postponements granted farmers, in relation to applications, had risen substantially in the past year.

Due to the successful end of the Tunisian campaign and the consequent readjustment of the production programme, it was not possible to give a precise estimate of the war industry requirements. As of February, however, the programme called for an increase of about 20,000 men and 60,000 women in war plant production and associated industries.

Mr. Mitchell said the more serious labor shortages were in mining, agriculture, logging and other primary industries where able-bodied men were needed. He was sure the situation would be eased by co-operative action.

Under a mobilization survey plan, the orderly withdrawal of replaceable workers from essential industries into the armed services and provision of replacement with the least possible disturbance to production was being arranged.

MUST REPORT MEN OF AGE

The survey required the employer to report employees of military age, along with a description of their work and the length of time required to train replacements.

Local committees reviewed the information and a plan approved by them went to the mobilization board. If approved, it became a schedule by means of which the employer was informed of the order in which his employees will be called.

Labor turnover had shown a great improvement, Mr. Mitchell said.

There had been instability in the general labor situation. There must be more give and take between employers and labor, and acceptance of the results of arbitration. Recognition of labor rights was fundmental, but both partners in industry had responsibility.

Full use had been made of the advice of representatives of organized workers.

As at March 31, nearly 218,248 men and women had been enrolled in vocational and plant school classes since the beginning of the war emergency training programme.

No matter what the Government did there would be labor shortages in many essential lines as long as the war lasted, said Mr. Mitchell.

"We must be prepared for the need of a greater number of men for our armed forces," he continued. "This will serve to tighten still more the labor situation at home."

Decision had been made to make use of prisoners of war, and it was hoped to employ many in selected types of agricultural work, in woodcutting and in mining. Use of these men involved measures for public security and discipline of the prisoners, but the number it would be possible to use would help to that extent in easing the manpower problem.

TO USE JAPANESE TO CUT FUEL

A plan was being developed between the Labor and Munitions Departments to use most of the remaining employable Japanese men in British Columbia in cutting fuelwood for the British Columbia market. Some 800 or 900 Japanese were being used to build British Columbia highways of strategic and national importance.

There were frequent changes in the war production programme and this required revision of labor priority ratings; but generally there was "a good priority picture" for available labor.

One report on unfilled jobs and unplaced applicants had led to criticism that the demands of vital operations were not being met. But, said Mr. Mitchell, the likelihood was that few of those listed as unplaced had been idle for a long time and that they would be referred to jobs within a matter of days after issuance of the report.

Co-operation with the provinces in respect to farm labor had been developed, with the Governments paying for the transportation of workers to points where they were needed.

More than 300 treaty Indians had been recruited this Spring to finish Alberta threshing. About 1,000 would be working farms in Manitoba during the Summer and harvest time.

Recruiting of female and student help was active in all provinces and universities deserved the nation's thanks for the way they had co-operated in the programme.

Employable men and women from among the 21,000 Japanese evacuated from the Pacific Coast were gradually being placed in employment where they would be of most use in the war effort. Thousands had been absorbed in food production and others would be so engaged.

FARMERS ASK FOR JAPANESE LABOR

Farmers from British Columbia to Quebec were applying for this Japanese labor, especially in areas where these workers had proved themselves last year.

The present sugar ration had been partly dependent in 1942 on the labor of 4,000 Japanese and again in 1943 in the sugar beet areas of Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario.

British Columbia and Ontario fruitgrowers were using several hundred Japanese and wanted many more this year.

"In all, between 5,000 and 6,000 Japanese men, women and children now are working on Canadian farms," Mr. Mitchell said.

Business of the employment service had increased 500 per cent within a year. The average weekly number of vacancies reported was 50,000. Slightly more than 50,000 applicants were registered and slightly less than that number referred to the vacancies.

Selective Service had given special attention to the supply of men for lake navigation, recognizing its importance in wartime transportation.

In the year ending March 1, the strength of armed forces increased by more than 220,000, and persons employed in war-plant production and associated industries by 320,000.

In the year starting April 1, it was expected there would be a net increase of 127,000 men and 24,000 women in the forces.

The Bible is still the world's best-seller, but to conserve paper in Britain the quota for printing it has been cut to one-tenth of the peacetime quantity.

Sixty Dead in Circus Train Wreck—Sixty persons are known to be dead and 129 in hospitals tonight as a result of a rear-end collision at dawn today between an empty troop train and a Wallace-Hagenback Circus train, on the Michigan Central Railroad, five miles west of Gary, Indiana. Thirty-seven bodies, charred beyond recognition, have been taken to Gary and twenty-two to Hammond.

Visitors Entertained on Flagship—Very many visitors were hospitably received on board the flagship Royal Arthur at Esquimalt, Sunday, the ship's company manifesting a desire to please and oblige all by explaining the numerous mysteries to the uninitiated. The Royal Arthur may be described as one gigantic piece of wonderful machinery, both offensive and defensive, and even to those familiar with the equipment of less modern warships, a visit will prove an object lesson.

A New Engine of War—A Paris correspondent speaks of some new engine of war, tried in May at Meudon, having been found to exceed in rapidity and power of destruction even that secret gun of the private trials of the Emperor, of which we have heard so much. The trial was strictly private, of course, but I can report the remark of a general officer who was present: "It is the most wonderful weapon I ever saw. I should say that a battle would now last about half an hour."

From a Dawson City reader: "When the Alaska Highway was being rushed to completion, a number of United States negroes from the deep south visited the settlement for a bit of relaxation from their heavy labors on the military highway. Several of our native Indians gazed upon the colored Americans with mouths agape. After an embarrassing pause of several seconds, an Indian chief pointed to one [illegible] and proclaimed loudly to his followers: 'Ugh. Dark. Midnight.' The road workman opened his mouth in a flashing toothy smile and replied: 'Thasso? Ah don't know so much 'bout dat. You all kin' o' haf pas' leben yo'self' " . . . From The Chicago Daily News: "Word from the European fortress is that Adolf is much concerned over the condition of its walls. Also, thanks to the R.A.F., the entire plumbing of the Ruhr Valley has sprung a leak" . . . Spokane, Wash., has a curfew law, and according to a recent news item: Police Officer Elmo Springer saw two young girls on the streets late at night. "Aren't you a juvenile"? he asked one suspiciously. The youngster drew herself up indignantly. "I'll have you know I've never been a juvenile in all my life," she snorted . . . From a waitress in a Broad Street cafe: "Day after day I serve a professional man with the same breakfast, and invariably the following takes place. 'I'll have, let's see now, I'll take porridge and—let's see now. Have you a programme? Thanks. Yes I'll have oatmeal porridge, tea and toast. Yes, thanks, I'll have porridge and the rest'. Then there is another man we always think of privately as 'fidget' because he refers to those new navy ships as 'fidgets' instead of frigates. A third we call 'chimleys' because that is the way he pronounces chimneys" . . . Hippophagy is the practice of eating horse meat. Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia forbids the sale of such meat in New York City on "moral" grounds . . . According to Life, 1,791 Japanese were killed on Attu, but only eleven were captured. United States troops killed numbered 342, with 1,135 wounded and fifty-eight missing.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

A GREATER VICTORIA

Sir,—The letter from Mr. Herbert Carmichael of the 17th re amalgamation of the four municipalities, states Oak Bay is not interested seeing Victoria would receive the benefits. To demonstrate, may I draw a simple comparison. Three married daughters setting up housekeeping adjoining mother, whose financial circumstances are good, so why the [illegible] er of a late model. Indeed, why worry about a thousand and one necessities while they can borrow or beg such as needed. Yes, but for mother how would they fare? Not one adjacent municipality possesses a public library, hospitals, homes for the aged, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A. Most church-goers come to the city churches. Again, the Parliament Buildings, Empress Hotel, Crystal Garden are some of Victoria's assets. Court is held in Victoria. Most hotels are situated here. Parks of any account and most banks are in Victoria. Light, gas and water are supplied by Victoria; in fact, Victoria is the only business centre. All mail is addressed to Victoria.

Almost every organization has its headquarters in Victoria. We have the Chamber of Commerce and Publicity Bureau. The educational situation in the adjoining districts alone is a paramount reason for the needed change. A house divided against itself results in muddle, to say nothing of needless expense for duplicated services.

What would our neighbors do without the aid of our fine fire-fighting apparatus. Sewerage conditions adjoining Victoria are appalling. Socially and politically speaking, the four separate districts are a detriment to themselves. Little groups get control, resulting in stagnation; hence, much fine talent and ability go to waste. Whereas, with a united effort we could have an attractive well managed city of note. Let us rise to the occasion and dissect the situation without bias. The present set-up is not good enough. No wonder Ottawa forgets we exist. However with one strong voice in place of four weak ones out of tune we could be heard across the Dominion and elsewhere. It's really worth trying, is it not?

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT

Sir,—In your paper this morning, tucked away in an unobtrusive position, is a news item which well might have a front-page position. I am sure many would be grateful if you would republish it, and make editorially remarks expressing the desires and thoughts of such large numbers of your readers, to whom this news item from London heralds good.

TO PUBLICIZE RELIGION

London (CP).—A Ministry of Information for Christianity has been suggested by Lord Hankey, who said, "I should like to see some board, with representatives of the churches, which are co-operating so well in many matters, to spread existing ways and find new ones to bring religious thought into our national life . . ."

In one panoramic thought one visualizes through home, community and state the wide effect such an unpolitical Government board could have on national life.

LOWLANDS FLOODED

PORTLAND, Ore., June 23 (AP).—The swollen Columbia River flooded some 4,500 acres of lowlands west of Vancouver, Wash., today and isolated several dairy farms, but the weather bureau said waters would recede gradually during the next three days. The river reading at Vancouver was 19.9 feet, almost five feet above flood stage.

According to Culbertson - - -

With all the misfortunes that can befall a declarer—bad suit breaks, unfortunate position of honors, adverse ruffs, and so forth ad infinitum—it is not surprising that a large proportion of contracts that look "cold" fall somewhere by the wayside. It is surprising, however, that so many other contracts which are far easier to fulfill than to lose, meet the same fate.

West opened with the diamond king, and when he saw the 10 drop from East's hand, continued with the ace and queen. This sequence of plays should have made matters absurdly simple for declarer, but apparently he was not aware of his good fortune. East tried to strike a blow for his team by ruffing the third diamond with the heart nine, but declarer, of course, over-ruffed and had no trouble drawing all the outstanding trumps in three leads. East, carefully refraining from announcing his spade strength, discarded two low spades. Now declarer led a low club to the queen and then cashed his ace and king of clubs, looking expectantly for a 3-3 break of the suit. To his great disgust, this break failed to materialize and the contract was now irrevocably doomed. Whatever declarer did, East was sure to win a spade and a club.

If West, after cashing only one diamond had shifted to a spade declarer would have had a real problem on his hands, but as the play actually went, ten tricks scarcely could have been colder. After drawing trumps, how could declarer possibly lose by leading a spade and putting in dummy's 10-spot? East had been shown to have no more diamonds and no more hearts. If he won the spade lead, what could he return that would fail to give declarer the rest of the tricks? A spade return would build two spade tricks for declarer and permit him to discard a club, a club return would be up to dummy's Q-10 and assure declarer of four solid club tricks.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP).—Conditional settlement of the coal labor controversy gave the stock market a lift in price and volume today.

Most rail and industrial leaders were in higher ground from the start. In the final hour a few slipped away from the tops rather fast, while others pushed up to high peaks.

Despite this vital interest in the coal situation, the steels stumbled near the close. Chrysler, on the other hand, made a last-minute spurt for a gain of 2 points.

Rubbers, merchandising shares, oils, rails and specialties gave a good account of themselves, ending with advances ranging from fractions to more than a point.

The Associated Press sixty-stock composite rose .4 of a point to 30.6. Transactions amounted to 839,270 shares, compared with 698,170 Tuesday.

Up a point at the close were Goodyear, U.S. Rubber, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Owens-Illinois, Harvester, U.S. Gypsum and Standard Oil of California.

International Telephone rose nearly a point on publication of a March quarter statement showing a large gain in net income over a year ago.

We're Embarrassed!
For over thirty years we've been urging people to take advantage of New Method Laundry and Dry Cleaning, but today we find ourselves in the embarrassing position of not always being able to carry out all our promises of doing the finest work and giving perfect delivery service. But we DO appreciate your business just as much as ever, and we DO wish we could give you the kind of service which used to be our pride and joy. The increased work for the armed forces and the extra civilian population is simply overwhelming, and with the impossibility of getting extra help or extra equipment, we can only do our best under very difficult circumstances. May we hope that you will continue to be patient with us if we fail to measure up to our normal high standards.

Rev. and Mrs. W. Allan Guests at Farewell Held by Congregation

Members of the congregation and many adherents of Wilkinson Road United Church met on Tuesday evening in the church hall to bid farewell to their pastor, Rev. William Allan, and Mrs. Allan, who leave at the close of an eleven-year term to enter their new field of work in Fairfield United Church, Victoria.

Mr. A. E. Campion, recording steward, presided in a very able manner and the programme opened with a hymn led by the choirmaster, Mr. E. Boorman, after which Mr. [illegible] asked to lead in prayer. Following this a short programme was enjoyed, which included a pianoforte solo by Miss Helen Phillips; solos, "My Ain Folk" and "When Song Is Sweet," by Miss Barr; "I Dream of Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," by Rev. Mr. Allan, and two numbers, "Where the River Kenmair Flows" and "Dear Little Jammy Face," by Mrs. H. Allison. Miss Jessie Swales and Mrs. C. F. Motal acted as accompanists.

The chairman then invited Rev. and Mrs. Allan to the platform, where Mr. S. Green, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. Allan with a cheque and Mrs. A. J. Rainer presented Mrs. Allan with a beautiful arm bouquet of roses, carnations and varigated snapdragon. In making the presentation, Mr. Green expressed the deep appreciation of the congregation for the broad sympathies and the willing readiness of Mr. Allan to render a pastor's assistance when needed.

In replying, Mr. Allan spoke of the very helpful and happy years he had spent as their pastor and gave a brief outline of their lives since he and Mrs. Allan arrived in Canada from Dundee, Scotland. Coming with the intention of entering the business world, instead he entered the missionary work as a teacher to the isolated villages of Northern British Columbia and later became ordained as a minister of the United Church of Canada. On the termination of a four-year pastorate at Salt Spring Island, he went to the charge just terminating and he thanked the members and board of elders and stewards for their harmonious assistance at all times.

The programme closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the Misnah Benedictions.

Dainty refreshments were served by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and the Young People's Society.

Plans for a party to be held July 3 were made last night at a meeting of the Zelotes Club, with the president, Miss Susanne Aller, in the chair. Proceeds from this affair will be devoted to the club's war charities. Mrs. H. A. Beckwith addressed the members on the importance of buying War Savings Certificates. It was decided to donate a sum of money each month toward war work, and the sum of $10 was voted to the Milk for Britain Fund.

Finds Much Work Accomplished at Island Registries

Mrs. W. E. Rayfuse, manager of National Housing Registry, returned yesterday to Victoria after visiting registries at Port Alberni and Nanaimo, where she found a quantity of business had been transacted, and where many placements have been made.

Speaking of the local situation regarding accommodation for those urgently in need of rooms and houses, Mrs. Rayfuse admitted the applications are still being received.

"With the hundreds of men being brought to this city for work in the shipyards within the next few weeks, one wonders what to do to alleviate the situation. The essential war work must be furthered, and while we received today seventy offers for accommodation for boys and men coming to work in the shipyards, we still need a great many more," stated Mrs. Rayfuse.

A card with a satin streamer containing all the names was attached to the gift.

Miss Peggy Bradford, 330 Moss Street, was hostess on Tuesday evening at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Doreen Cox, a popular bride-elect. As they entered the living-room Miss Cox and her mother were presented with corsage bouquets of red and white carnations, and here the honoree found the pretty gifts arranged on a table. Supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss J. Hawarth, from a table centred with a silver vase of yellow marguerites, lighted by white candles in matching holders. RED CROSS RECRUITS

The nursing section is in very great need of young women, with free time, to work as nurses' aides in civilian hospitals, and as V.A.D.'s in military hospitals. To prepare recruits for that work, the Red Cross trains them in first aid, home nursing and anti-gas, besides giving lectures on anatomy, physiology, health and hygiene. On completion of the various courses a recruit then goes to a recognized hospital to undergo her V.A.D. training, which consists of 240 hours duty on the different floors of the hospital. After that the member is then ready to take her place as a nurse's aide, a V.A.D., or to go overseas with the Canadian Red Cross. After the war is over, the training which a member has received in the Canadian Red Cross Corps will enable her to be of much greater help in the home, should sickness arise.

Playground Programmes Start Monday

Spectacular openings Monday and Tuesday evenings will mark the start of Victoria's supervised playground programme at Central and Beacon Hill Parks this year, the Council of Social Agencies, sponsors, announced today.

Participating in the functions will be the Victoria Schools Band, the Y.M.C.A. track team and Pro-Rec groups.

Details of the events were listed by Supervisor Frances Borde yesterday as the organization completed arrangements for two months' direction of activity for youngsters in the two parks.

The function Monday at Central Park will start with selections by the band, under the direction of Al Prescott. Midget tumblers of the Pro-Rec class will follow with a display and Jerry Long will give a tap dance demonstration.

The "Y" flyers will take over for a short demonstration of warming up, track calisthenics and short races before H. W. Warren, city parks superintendent and chairman of the programme committee, outlines activities listed for the season.

The junior Pro-Rec group will contribute a peasant waltz clog, the schools band will play again and the event will close with a tumbling display by older Pro-Rec youngsters.

This year the playground programme is being opened with a ceremony to interest parents and older children in the schedule drawn up by the council for the constructive entertainment of the youngsters.

Two professional supervisors have been engaged to handle the two parks and volunteer assistants will contribute time and energy to the programme.

Successful last year, when it was revived at Central and Victoria West Parks, the plan has been expanded for the coming vacation period to provide greater interest activities for the children.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ARTHRITIS IS A GENERAL DISEASE OF THE BODY

When a shoulder, knee or elbow aches, it is called arthritis and the natural way to treat it is to supply heat, wintergreen oil, or some pain-relieving drug such as a combination of laudanum and witchhazel.

While treatment of the joint itself does give some relief, what most of us forget is that arthritis really means some disturbance of the whole system, not just the painful joint.

In Archives of Physical Therapy Dr. Ralph Pemberton, Philadelphia, an outstanding authority on arthritis, states that arthritis is not a local disease of the joints; rather it is a disease of the whole body, the symptoms just happening to be in the joints. Many patients suffering with fibrositis (inflammation of the tendons and muscles at or near a joint) may show little or no true inflammation of the joint itself (arthritis).

In both rheumatoid (inflammatory) arthritis of younger persons and osteoarthritis (change in bone structure of joints) of older persons, the symptoms occur on both sides, although osteoarthritis may be worse on one side than on the other. There is slight swelling, both hands cold and sweaty.

That the disease is general throughout the body and not in the joint only is shown by the fact that in women during the monthly periods and at the menopause, the symptoms become worse; but during pregnancy, less.

Other symptoms showing that arthritis is a general disease is that these patients stand cold poorly, lack sufficient hydrochloric acid in the stomach digestive juice, may have a slow emptying gall bladder and a slow emptying or sluggish large intestine.

When we think of arthritis as Dr. Pemberton has pictured it, the treatment necessary for a general disturbance should also be general, such as applying heat to the whole body, the generation of heat in the body by means of drugs or electricity, the removal of infection, the using of a diet low in starch foods, the building up of the nervous system and the use of gland products.

Dr. Pemberton states that washing out the entire lower bowel (colon irrigations) has value in the treatment of arthritis.

I have had the opportunity of seeing the X-ray films of several cases of arthritis in which the large bowel was greatly lengthened by loops and twists. The use of colonic irrigations and abdominal exercises helped a number of these cases.

WILDWOOD, N.J., June 23 (CP)—So long as the boardwalk benches have reversible backs, this seaside resort doesn't need a date bureau. Servicemen know that if she sits facing the ocean her evening's all arranged; facing the boardwalk, she'll listen to suggestions.

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP)—Sixteen hospitals with a normal bed capacity of 6,921 are operated in Canada by the Department of Pensions and National Health, said a report tabled today in the House of Commons for Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D., Macleod).

The approximate number of first Great War veterans—pensioners and otherwise—in these hospitals numbered 1,487 at April 30, the report said.

Small Radio Transmitter Saves Lives of Nineteen

"Coffee-Grinder" Set Dropped to Victims of Torpedoing by Parachute From Rescue Aircraft

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP).—The rescue of nineteen victims of an Atlantic torpedoing was quickly accomplished recently through the delivery to them by parachute of a little device weighing less than twenty pounds.

The device, said R.C.A.F. Headquarters in a press release today, is a waterproof and foolproof radio transmitter, capable of sending a signal up to 150 miles, and the nineteen survivors rescued are among those who testify that it is doing its job well.

It was announced some time ago that the device was being put into use.

Located by a rescue aircraft, they were dropped a transmitter, and shortly afterwards a Canadian destroyer which picked up their insistent SOS, distress signal took them aboard. No knowledge of radio is needed to operate the instrument. Anyone who can turn the generator crank can send an SOS., after adjusting the dial on the front of the transmitter.

CAN SEND FULL MESSAGE

If the operator knows code, he can send a complete message with a built-in telegraph key. A signal lamp is included. Like the code signal, it can be set for an automatic SOS, operated by the key, like an aircraft Aldis lamp.

The device, which somewhat resembles the old-fashioned "coffee grinder," since it resembles that old-fashioned kitchen utensil, It has a built-in aerial—one of the factors contributing to its power and range.

The signal enables listeners in coastal stations, ships and aircraft to determine the position of a dinghy and send ships and planes to the rescue. The transmitter will be carried on all larger aircraft and planes on sea-rescue patrol and dropped to dinghies without a sea-rescue set.

Air Force Eleven Beats Spencers

Royal Air Force cricketers came back with some powerful batting yesterday afternoon to soundly trounce Spencers in the mid-week match at Beacon Hill Park by 76 runs, the final check-up being 101 to 25. Last week the departmental eleven won from the airmen, but they were never in the picture in the return fixture.

Oliver led the R.A.F. batsmen with 33, not out, while Sammes was next in order with 20 runs and Vale added a useful 18, while Thompson got an even dozen before being bowled by Griffiths. The only member of Spencers' team to break into double figures was Sherman, who registered 10 runs before Thompson bowled him. R.A.F. bowlers proved too good for the rest of the batsmen.

Steam Rooms Used in Poland To Execute 500 Jews at Time

Nazis Use New Method, Effecting Suffocation Within Fifteen Minutes—Thousands Are Killed

LONDON, June 23 (CP).—An almost unbelievable new method of Jewish extermination has been reported from underground sources in Poland to the International Department of the British Labor Party—steam rooms where 500 persons can be executed by suffocation in fifteen minutes.

The reports say that the three major extermination camps in Eastern Poland—to which even the Germans admit 364,374 Jews were deported from Warsaw alone by September 21, 1942—are at Treblinka, Belzec and Sobibor. Belzec was organized for extermination by electrocution, with Treblinka the main extermination by suffocation camp.

The reports say the Treblinka camp covers 2,000 square miles, and has a railway siding where people sent from the Warsaw ghetto are unloaded. The place of execution is a stone building composed of three chambers and a steam boiler, from which pipes lead to the death chambers.

PUT 7,000 TO DEATH IN DAY

"On arrival at the place of execution," this report says, "the Jews are forced to take off all clothing and are kept waiting in the open before they are driven into the death chamber in batches of about 500 at a time. They die of suffocation when the steam is forced to such pressure that they cannot breathe. Execution lasts fifteen minutes, after which the bodies are buried in deep pits excavated by special shoveling machines working day and night . . . The camp is so organized as to be able to put to death at least 7,000 persons daily."

The report says the Germans use all psychological means to keep the Jews in ignorance of their fate until the last moment.

Overlooking the place where the Jews must give up their clothing is a sign: "Be calm about your fate. You are all going to work in the east and your wives will be occupied with household work. But before you leave you must take a bath, and your clothes must be given up for delousing. You should deposit your money and valuables with the cashier here. You will receive a proper receipt for them, and after you have bathed and your clothes have been deloused you will receive everything back in perfect order."

Not until the doors of the death chamber open do the doomed people realize what awaits them.

How It Started----

By JEAN NEWTON

"IN THE SWEAT OF THY FACE——"

It is not so long since Winston Churchill said, "If we wrangle about yesterday we have lost tomorrow."

We are never happy, it appears, unless we have something to worry about—hardly have we burst the chains of recriminatory bygones but a lot of "planners" are seeking to shackle us with the ropes of the future, so that, to paraphrase Churchill, if we wrangle about tomorrow, we have an even chance to lose today.

There is a time and a place to climb the highest mountains in the world; but is now, when there is so much trouble to keep us occupied at lower altitudes, the time and the place?

Plato, St. Augustine, Sir Thomas More, Francis Bacon—no mean "planners" these—laid down blueprints for shimmering Utopias; but compared to the dream "plans" currently being released, their conceptions were pigmyish; their flights never got anywhere near the isothermal regions into which bureaucratic experts, on whose work sheets cost in terms of elbow grease and taxes don't get a by-line, have rocketed their ruminations, social and economic.

"Cards beat all the players though they were never so skilful"—and it never was and isn't now in the cards that we can get something for nothing, make much out of little, or get anywhere worthwhile unless our actions are motivated by necessity and fear of consequences.

Man proposes—God disposes; His disposition still is "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," and those who monkey with this Old Testament res adjudicata are advertising to the world that they have never studied human nature in Sunday school.

NO. 165—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1943

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

IN THE MAIL BAG

Dear Joe.—As you said in your column yesterday morning it is just about a record for the V.M.D. winning six cups this season, but if you will look back at the record of the Victoria City Football Club you will notice that they also won six, which was all there were to play for in those days. The players also received six sets of medals.

I will congratulate them because it is not much trouble, not much for a manager and trainer, and good luck to them, because they get no thanks, and deserve as much as any of the players, but not more.

If you take the remarks of men who have trained first-class teams you will know. Then, again, take a first-class trainer and manager and they will make a team, and have been known to do so on many occasions. I knew one trainer who was willing to wager that he could take any team which would continue to hang onto the bottom of the league, and if they would co-operate with him and train as he wanted them he would win the league with them. Then, again, note what has happened to many of the best teams who have lost their trainer to another team. Give credit where it is due, at least as much to any player on the team, to the manager and trainer.

Good luck to you, Joe. I still read your column every day.

Yours truly,
G. SPENCE MATTHEWS.
710 Fort Street.

Comment: Yes, Spence, the manager and trainer of a soccer club, or any kind of an athletic team as far as that goes, have a great deal to do with its showing throughout a heavy schedule. You have trained plenty of athletes in your time, so nobody knows better than you. The City's club achievement equals, if not slightly betters, the shipbuilders by a close margin. Thanks for the letter.

ODDS AND ENDS

Is it the dead ball or a flock of dead hitters in the major leagues? Anyhow, home-run hitting has fallen off sharply this season, for of the 315 safeties made by both circuits on a recent week-end only eleven were four-base clouts. However, some of those boys under the big tent can hit that apple for distance when they connect. For instance, the other day Vince DiMaggio smacked a homer inside the park and the ball traveled 445 feet to the very deepest part of leftfield . . . After he saw a field marked out for an American football game, a well-known London sports writer called it "Rugby by compartments" . . . Bill Corum, New York sports columnist, who was a major in the United States Army in the last war, is preparing to shove off in this one as a war correspondent . . . Do you know it costs $11 to make a saliva test of a horse at the Detroit Fair Grounds, and with 576 races on the schedule, the season's bill for testing will run to $6,336 for all the winners? . . . San Diego's Padres, hard up for pitchers, are recommended to investigate Jiggs, a chimpanzee at the San Diego zoo. Jiggs has been known to hurl an orange 300 feet with bullet-like speed . . . By the way, the Padres played the Pasco naval base club the other day and the Northwest team gave them a fair trouncing, which goes to prove they have a powerful club in that station . . . Dave McKay, playing coach of the Nanaimo Clippers in the Island Hockey League, is now in the Royal Canadian Air Force. Just where the former Chicago Black Hawk star will be posted is not yet known and will not be until he finishes his course . . . Boyd Bartley, Illinois University rookie the Dodgers lifted under Cub noses, went to bat twenty-one times for one hit before being shipped to the "junior bums" in Montreal.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Seattle's top pitcher, Hal Turpin, is thinking seriously of returning to his farm in Yoncalla. The Rainiers are bad enough off for moundmen now and if Hal decides to leave the club it will mean a big headache for the front office, as if it hasn't had enough since the campaign started . . . Every time a golf tournament is staged where handicaps are involved there is always a big rumpus when it's all over. Arguments will crop up every time a handicap winner has been named, no matter where it is held and in what country. I have seen golf officials and contestants nearly come to blows over such tournaments—in other words, the handicap committees are always on the spot. You can't expect the committee to put the winner of such events through the third degree. It's a thankless job to try and figure out a competitor's handicap when he doesn't belong to a club and probably only plays the game a few times a year. Then, again, there are golfers who fail to turn in cards when they do belong to clubs for they know full well that their handicaps will be reduced in a hurry . . . V.M.D. softballers took no chances with the cellar occupants," the Army, and trotted out Al Eureby, Ian Lowe and Babe Work for infield duty. That's three of the shipbuilders' regular baseball team's inner defence, so naturally the troops found it tough breaking through for hits, and no wonder with that trio along with George Byerstuck tossing the apple around, with speed and accuracy

Last night's score:
Navy 10, V.M.D. 1.

Tomorrow's game:
6:30—Army vs. Eagles, Royal Athletic Park.

Hitting the ball hard in the pinches and displaying plenty of speed on the paths, Royal Canadian Navy baseballers last night handed the pace-setting V.M.D. aggregation their worst defeat of the season, a 10-1 shellacking at the Caledonia Avenue ball lot.

Bluejackets accomplished two things in their one-sided triumph over the defending champions. First, they evened up the games between the two squads, and second they snapped the winning streak of Tommy Musgrave, V.M.D.'s ace hurler, at four games.

Second straight reverse for the league leaders, the outcome tightened considerably the race for top berth in the senior baseball pennant race, and left the three top teams separated only by a single game.

Husky Jimmy Dumeah, pitching star of the finals between the shipbuilders and the bluejackets in 1942, came up with his best hurling exhibition of the current campaign. The big right-hander limited the hard-hitting V.M.D. batters to four scattered base knocks in a grand display of control and smart pitching.

TOMMY MUSGRAVE GOES TO SHOWERS IN FIFTH

Tommy Musgrave, shooting for his fifth win, opened on the slab for the champions, and for the first time this season was driven to the showers. Sailors poked out base hits early, and really tagged his offerings in the fifth frame before Coach Laurel Harney replaced him with Billy Burke, latest addition to the V.M.D.'s hurling staff.

Sailors collected a total of seven base hits from the slants of Musgrave during his four and one-third frames on the hillock. The V.M.D. flinger issued one walk and was not credited with any strikeouts.

Billy Burke, former Saskatoon hurler, who stands well over six feet, made his debut on the mound in a relief role. The newcomer looked a little out of place in the new surroundings and just a little jittery. He worked for three and two-third innings and gave up four bage hits and four runs. Wild at times, Burke had difficulty fielding bunts. He fanned three.

Ken VanHatten, top slicker in the Vancouver Baseball League prior to joining the Navy club here, laced out a double and two singles out of four times at bat, to lead the sailor attack.

Patterson, Lowe, Restall and Euerby were the only members of the V.M.D. to salvage any hits from the offerings of Jimmy Dumeah.

Navy trotted out in smart new grey uniforms and looked very snappy indeed.

Half a game back of the V.M.D., Army will stack up against the Eagles tomorrow evening at Royal Athletic Park. A win for the troops will place them in a tie with the shipbuilders and make Saturday's fixture between the soldiers and V.M.D. a "natural."

Brooklyn Creeps Up on Leaders

Dodgers Humble Giants Twice to Move Up Within Half a Game

NATIONAL LEAGUE

BROOKLYN, June 23 (CP).—Brooklyn Dodgers hammered their cross-town rivals, the New York Giants, into helplessness twice today, 7-2 and 6-0, and crept within half a game of the National League lead, but these joyous tidings were mixed with disappointment for Flatbush fans. What the 27,547 customers seemed to want most was for old Curtis (Daniel Boone) Davis to get a no-hitter in the second game.

However, with two out in the eighth, Dick Bartell, a veteran of seventeen years in the National League, slapped a clean single into left field and received a tremendous chorus of boos for his pains.

It was Brooklyn's fifth victory in a row against the Giants, who dropped into the National League cellar.

Braves Capture Pair

BOSTON, June 23 (CP).—The combination of timely hitting and effective pitching today enabled Boston Braves to sweep a double-header from Philadelphia with a 1-0 shutout and a 4-3 victory in eleven innings. "Red" Barrett held the Phillies to seven scattered hits during the opener.

Al Javery chalked up his seventh victory of the season when, with two out, Chuck Workman singled in Whitey Wietelmann with Boston's winning run in the eleventh inning of the nightcap.

Cubs, Pirates Divide

CHICAGO, June 23 (CP).—Capitalizing on Claude Passeau's five-hit pitching, Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 4-1 in the first game of a double-header today, thereby winning three games in a row for the first time this season and climbing out of the National League cellar for the first time since May 14. Then the Pirates, led by Bob Elliott's double and three singles, took the nightcap 7-5.

First Game—	R.	H.	E.

Cardinals Badly Beaten

CINCINNATI, June 23 (CP).—A slow game that wore out fifteen St. Louis Cardinals, including three pitchers, went to Cincinnati Reds today, 8-3, to square the current National League series. Reds scored three runs in the fourth to ice the contest.

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	200 100 000—3	10	1
Cincinnati	101 320 01x—8	12	0

Batteries: M. Cooper, Dickson (4), Munger (7) and W. Cooper; Starr, Beggs (5) and Mueller.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, June 23 (CP).—Chicago White Sox moved another step from the American League basement today with a 4-3 victory over the eighth-place Browns. Two-run outbursts in the fourth and fifth innings sewed up the contest.

St. Louis	000 001 200—3	8	1

Batteries — Smith, Haynes (7) Maltzberger (7) and Tresh; Sundra Potter (6) and Hayes.

Candini Flashes Form

NEW YORK, June 23 (CP).—Milo Candini had Washington Senators knocking at the American League's front door today by pitching the seventh victory of his undefeated season, 8-0, in the opener of a double-header against the Yankees.

But the Senators couldn't stand the prosperity, fell apart afield to blow the nightcap, 4-0, and that left the New Yorkers two games in front of the parade.

Candini faced his former mates for the first time and served up a six-hitter in the first game as the Senators thumped three New York hurlers for eleven blows.

In the nightcap, Tiny Bonham and Alex Carrasquel hooked up in a close one for awhile, but an error and a wild pitch, along with three hits and a walk, treated the Yanks to four unearned runs in the third inning. It was Tiny's sixth success of the campaign against two setbacks.

First Game:	R.	H.	E.
Washington	221 002 010—8	11	0
New York	000 000 000—0	5	3

Armed Troops Present

DETROIT, June 23 (CP) — Under the scrutiny of 360 armed troops, Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians divided an American League double-header today at Briggs Stadium, the Tigers taking the opener, 3-1, on Hal Newhouser's five-hitter and the Indians winning the nightcap, 9-6, on Jeff Heath's eleventh inning homer.

The rifle bearing soldiers were stationed in small groups throughout the vast stadium as a precaution against further manifestations of Detroit's racial strife, a situation believed unprecedented in baseball.

The Tigers front office announced that tomorrow's final game of the series would be played at 5 p.m. with approval of military authorities. A twilight game scheduled for Tuesday had been called off. The curfew under military rule is 10 p.m.

There was no trouble today.

Detroit	200 001 00x—3	8	2

Batteries — Salveson, Heving (1) Post (8) and Desaitels; Rosar (2); Newhouser and Richards.

RED SOX BEAT A'S

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 (CP).—Rookie Leon Culberson's fourth-inning home run gave Boston Red Sox a 1-0 victory over Philadelphia Athletics before 8,053 fans who sat through an hour-and-five-minute blackout at Shibe Park tonight. It was the A's sixth straight loss. Don Black, of the A's, allowed four hits, and Oscar Judd, of the Sox, five.

	R.	H.	E.

Philadelphia	000 000 000—0	5	1

The chief constable of a small town was also an expert veterinary surgeon. One night the telephone rang. The chief constable's wife answered.

"Is that Mr. Jenkins?" asked an agitated voice.

"Do you want my husband in his capacity as veterinary surgeon or as chief constable?"

Tommy Burns, of Vancouver, in the feature ten-round bout on the all-services card at the Royal Athletic Park on the evening of July 6. Dubs has already started training for his slugfest with the well-known Vancouver southpaw, who has hung up quite a record of knockouts since entering the professional ranks. The sailor is only twenty-one and has fought some good boys prior to enlisting, including "Sugar" Ray Robinson and Willie Joyce, the latter three times. The supporting card will be announced later by Promoters Jack Price and Sid Beech, but they stated yesterday that it will be all Navy, Army and Air Force punchers on the card and that thirty-five rounds of boxing are scheduled for the fans.

Angels Lengthen Margin in Race

Defeat Seals Twice in Flag Chase—Rainiers in Victory

By The Associated Press

Seattle's dwindling twilight baseball fans saw another good pitchers' battle as the Rainiers evened the series at one-one with a 3-1 victory over Sacramento's Coast League baseballers.

The league-leading Los Angeles vanquished the second-place San Francisco Seals in both games of a double-header, 5-2 and 4-3. The double victory boosted the Angels' lead to nine and one-half games.

Oakland shut out Hollywood, 1-0, in a tight pitchers' battle between Ralph Buxton and Bill Thomas. Buxton held the Stars to two hits and struck out eleven batters.

Portland Beavers, newly-arrived in fourth place in the race, blasted out three runs in the fifth inning and defeated the third-place San Diego Padres, 5-2, gaining a full game in the standings.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

IN the last war, a British officer was making his way through Persia to his post in Mesopotamia, and was given a bed for the night with a group of traveling Persian pilgrims sitting about a camp fire. Before he dropped off to sleep he heard them discussing the war, the chances of success for one side or the other and what was likely to follow the peace. One man said: "One thing is certain—if the Turks are beaten, it is the end of courage in this world." Another said: "Perhaps, but if the Germans are beaten, it is the end of science in the world." A third commented: "Yes, but if the British are beaten, it is the end of justice in the world." The debate was ended when the oldest pilgrim of all said solemnly: "In that case, God will not allow the British to be beaten."

Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, June 23 (CP).—Rule-makers in the All-American Girls' Professional Softball League this year increased the distance from pitcher's box to plate from thirty-five to forty feet. The idea was that fans like to see those base knocks and, at thirty-five feet, the pitcher has the advantage, but definitely, of the batter. Canada could use a similar rule change. No-hit games are a dime a dozen in the Dominion now. For example, last week two no-hit, no-run seven-inning games were pitched in Winnipeg softball and a 1-0 no-hitter was pitched in an inter-city girls' game at Moose Jaw. A no-hit game in baseball is really something; in softball it's peanuts.

ATHLETES AT WAR

Joe Krakauskas, the Hamilton, Ont., pitcher who made baseball's big time with Washington and Detroit, has cropped up again in Halifax where the R.C.A.F. ball team now hopes to win a game or two. Krakky had started this season with Stratford in the Ontario intercounty circuit . . . Marvin McIntyre, member of the Ken Watson rink from Winnipeg which won the Dominion curling crown in 1936 and 1942, has enlisted in the army . . . Jack Pomfret, one of Vancouver's outstanding swimmers, has joined the air force. Pomfret attended University of Washington in Seattle and played a bit of baseball with Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League.

EDITORIAL TURNOVER

Transfer of sports writers from one paper to another is a steady traffic nowadays. Many newcomers have entered the sports writing field. Hardly a Canadian paper but has seen at least a 50 per cent shakeup in its sports staff since the war. Some sport departments are entirely new. One of the latest changes sends Claude Kewley, veteran writer and lately sports editor of The Sarnia Observer, to The Toronto Globe and Mail. The Vancouver Sun has hired a girl sports writer—Ruth Wilson, member of Vancouver's Canadian basketball champions and British Columbia softball queens.

INCIDENTALLY:

Montreal Royals ran into a hitch when they offered to accept a piece of salvage as admittance to a ball game. The game was rained out, and some sixty women wanted return of their hot water bottles, girdles, saucepans, etc. The Royals management nearly went nuts trying to find out who owned what. They settled by giving passes for the next game all around.

"Did you see the girl I was out with last night? She's the image of her mother."

"Yes, I know, a talking picture."

ESKIMOS NOT LIABLE

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP).—An official of the Mines and Resources Department said today there is no law requiring Canadian Eskimos to take up arms against a foreign nation. He said Indians are liable for military service but Eskimos are not as they have never signed any treaty with the Canadian Government.

Colonel Sydney Lamb, C.M.G., D.S.O., O.F., who has spent the last few years in the Province of the Salvation Army, returned to Victoria yesterday from a conference meeting of the provincial commissioners of the Dominion, at the Army's Training College, Toronto.

Before coming to Victoria, the Commissioner visited in Prince Albert and Saskatoon, where he spent some happy days and toured with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The Duke he said is spending all his spare time at the home for the Duke of the Bahamas, while the Duchess is active in a committee for the soldiers.

Drama of Sea War To Come to Atlas

Thrills of battle and convoy duty in the Pacific provide the most essential drama of the sea since Mutiny on the Bounty in Metro-Mis "Stand By For Action," which opens today at the Atlas Theatre. The picture stars Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy and Charles Laughton. The action centres about an old destroyer on convoy duty which succeeds in beats off Jap warplanes and [illegible] battleship. A [illegible] are [illegible] but it's when the hard-boiled [illegible] and learned to care for [illegible] makes [illegible] up in a griffin's [illegible] boat. Yard Organizations Promote Production of Needed Shipping

Yarrow's Employees Look After Their Own Welfare

By F. M. KELLEY

Employee-controlled organizations are playing an important part in a large number of Coast plants at the present time busy with wartime requirements. These groups, builders of good-fellowship among the majority of workers, contribute in no small measure to plant morale, which is tangibly reflected in production figures, and, needless to state, are encouraged by managements appreciative of what teamwork means. Local shipbuilding concerns long ago saw the value of these groups when initiated by the men and women workers, and were only too happy to assist wherever possible without possessing the slightest inclination to interfere with internal direction.

Take the activities of the Yarrow yards at Esquimalt, for example. There are three principal divisions of employee interest functioning, and these embrace a number of lesser branches. Most frequently formed employee group is the Yarrowville Community Club. The latest group followed the construction of the dwellings built by Wartime Housing Limited for the accommodation of shipyard workers and their families. It has ambitions and hopes, with the co-operation of Esquimalt Municipal Council, to obtain a measure of self-government insofar as the housing boundaries are directly concerned.

Whether the ambitions in this direction will be realized or not, the club, governed by directors elected by the residents of the new dwellings, has already appointed committees to look after the social and economic welfare of the householders. The ladies of the community have, as well, been busy, and in co-operation with the Victorian Order of Nurses are presently organizing a well-baby clinic. The club also proposes to conduct dances in the Commissary Hall, adjacent to the housing project, and to utilize any proceeds therefrom for the construction of children's playgrounds and whatever else may be considered advisable for the general benefit of the little community. The Yarrowville Club is also hoping that, through its efforts, it will be possible to establish a co-operative store for the benefit and convenience of its members.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION OPEN TO ALL PLANT EMPLOYEES

Older organizations functioning under the Esquimalt shipyard banner are Yarrow's Employees' Health Association and Yarrow's Social and Athletic Association. The former is open to all employees under sixty-five, and all subscribing a small monthly fee become entitled to, if needed, free choice of physician, hospital and the provision of medicines, which also applies to families of employee members resident in any part of British Columbia.

As the name implies, the third principal organization, Yarrow's Social and Athletic Association, deals with the social and athletic pursuits of the plant's men and women. Golf tournaments, bowling and dances feature the Winter activities; while during the Summer months the main interests include baseball, softball, golf and other types of sport favored, as well as picnics sponsored by various groups to favorite spots.

Fishermen and Canners Agree

Same Basis of Prices As Prevailed in 1942

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP).—The Fisheries Department announced today that under agreements signed here this morning by representatives of British Columbia salmon fishermen and canners, "fishing operations during the 1943 season will continue on the same terms of agreement as were in effect in 1942."

Parties to the undertaking are the United Fishermen's Federal Union, the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia—made up of Indian fishermen of the province—and the Salmon Canners Operating Committee.

"Under the agreements, the basis of prices effective last year will again govern the prices the fishermen will receive from the canners for their catches," said the department.

WILL IRON OUT DIFFICULTIES

"The success in reaching this understanding will iron out difficulties which had arisen in connection with a recent order by the Prices Board in this regard.

"The agreements also embody undertakings by the fishermen that they will continue to operate throughout the season without interruption of strikes, tie-ups, or failure to fish."

Departmental officials said this was the first time the department had participated in negotiation of the seasonal arrangements between the canners and fishermen, and the first time such agreement had been signed in Ottawa.

What Today Means

"CANCER"

If June 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 3 to 5 p.m., and from 9 to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 to 11 a.m., from 7 to 9 p.m. and from 11 p.m. until midnight.

More may be accomplished by persuasion than by force, so make good use of your tongue, especially in cases of obstinacy. A spirit of unrest may be the primary cause of many unreasonable demands being made and only patient and logical explanations, as to why they cannot be acceded to, may convince their makers of the impracticability of them being granted. Keep a sharp eye out for trouble makers, and do not hesitate to immediately squelch them as soon as they are discovered. Today, realize good intentions will prove worthless unless they are carried out, so put any you have into effect, especially if they involve the writing of letters. Married and engaged couples, and those engrossed in planning a matrimonial future together, might find it helpful to realize that "sentiment is intellectual emotion—emotion precipitated, as it were, in pretty crystals by the fancy."

If a woman and June 24 is your birthday, you might save yourself from making mistakes, if when seeking advice you make a point to go only to those who are qualified to give it. You cannot afford to be unduly sensitive, so do what you can to overcome this tendency. The fewer changes you make in your occupation or work the better off you will be, so if it is a case of where you become simply tired of doing any one thing, look twice before looking around for something else. A retentive memory is apt to be one of your greatest blessings, providing, however, you only permit it to dwell on the pleasant and not the unpleasant experiences you have had in the past. As a dietitian trained nurse, Government employee, factory worker, milliner, modiste, singer, artist, secretary, librarian, writer, instructress, business operator, or in some managerial capacity you should be financially successful and have your ability recognized. Your matrimonial expectations are apt to be realized.

The child born on June 24 is generally a good-natured generous youngster, ever ready to lend a helping hand when it is needed. Social activities and popularity are often responsible for it having the opportunity to demonstrate its ability in its chosen career.

If a man and June 24 is your natal day, you may be your own worst enemy, so learn to exercise self-restraint and to overcome your recognized weaknesses. If you wish to attain the degree of success that you should. As an inventor, geologist, naturalist, chemist, engineer, author, journalist, critic, composer, artist, manufacturer, business executive, financier, railroad man, educator, clergyman, or through some patriotic line of activity, you ought to enjoy to the full the fruits of success.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER LXIV

It was Summer, and this year the Cashmans rose to the dignity of having a cabin of their own at the lake; one hundred dollars' rent for two months, but Dina paid it, and Dina was sure it was worth it.

Again they loaded the car and again the family packed itself into it. Dina and Art took up the first [illegible]

It was hot July weather as they drove up past the flat river country and into the mountains; this was sheer delight and adventure, and Dina's mood of excitement and joy affected all the rest.

"Oh, I wish everybody in the world could have as much fun as we do!" Dina said when they had found the brown cottage perched on a great waterside outbreak of boulders and had investigated its three bunk-lined rooms and started their first fire in the great black-mouthed chimney.

The Cashmans were into the water like fish restored to their natural element. It was only fifty feet to the great flat-topped rock still baking in the sunlight, but the Cashmans were not experienced swimmers and were glad to sit there.

They lay like three seals, panting and occasionally shouting a warning to the three small sisters who were busily splashing, digging, and shouting with a few other children on the narrow strip of beach.

Two other swimmers came up to their rock, hung there breathless for a moment, swam away again. When a third stranger was suddenly there, dragging his dripping form up to a level several feet away from them, sitting with his back toward them, they paid him no attention.

But after a moment he said, "Hello, Dina," and Dina turned with a sudden stop at her heart and looked at him.

"Andy!" she said. Art and Myrna were gone, swimming back to the shore, and the world was all to themselves, man and woman, their dripping hands together, their eyes seeing nothing but each other.

"I arrived here today," he said. "I'm over at the hotel. I thought you people wouldn't be here until late tonight. But when I saw you drive by I got my bathing suit out."

"But who told you we'd be here at all?"

"Rogers."

"You've seen him?"

"I telephoned him night before last, from New York. And then I flew, and we had a talk today."

"From New York? But, Andy—— you can stay how long?"

"I don't know. Until Sunday anyway."

"Only until Sunday!"

"That's three days."

"Yes, that's richness." Dina took off her cap, shook her mop free. Her slender long body was stretched on its side. "Oh, we're talking together again!" she said under her breath.

"I'm awfully glad, Dina," Andy answered, seriously. "Well, what brought me was, of course, telephoning to Rogers," he added.

"Rogers doesn't know we love each other," she said quickly. "Oh, of course he knows we're good friends," Dina amended it, "but he doesn't know about those few minutes in old Saint Mary's."

"Rogers may not know what detail, but he's known all along how things were with us."

"You think so?"

"Leave it to that old fox. Oh, yes, he wrote me about six weeks ago and asked me to come out this Summer," Andy said, "but what brought it to a head yesterday was an item in the paper."

"An item in the paper?"

"Yep. To the effect that my late bride," the man went on, "was married to J. Beardsley Mackinnon last Tuesday night."

"Aline married! And to Beardy Mackinnon, who goes farpoon fishing!"

"I don't know him. But that seems to tally with what Rogers said."

"But he's—he's sixty! And he's so dull!"

"Aline felt it would be wise to marry, apparently," Andrea said noncommittally.

"I suppose he's been following her around for years, perhaps," Dina said, still amazed, "but nobody ever takes Beardy very seriously."

"And have you thought what it means to us?" the man asked.

"But, of course." Her eyes were wide. "Rogers will agree to a divorce now?"

"Agree to it! I telephoned him, asked if I could see him if I flew out. Of course he suspected it was about you. Anyway, he said, 'Come ahead,' and we talked it out last night. There were tears in his eyes when he talked of you, Dina. He said, 'She's earned all the love and all the happiness any woman ever had. You see that she gets it!'"

"But, Andy——" It was her anxious, little-girl look. "You see, I've just got the youngsters up here for the Summer. Mama won't be up for a month yet. Donny had pneumonia and he's got to be built up, and Myrna and Art have to go back to their jobs in three weeks; they can't change their vacations now and I can't let them down. Do you think we could wait until almost September?"

"Listen, birdbrains," he said, "where do you think you are?"

"Why, I'm at Piny Cove at Lake Tahoe."

"You're in Nevada now, innocence."

"I'm—— Oh, heavens, this is Nevada! Oh, I always think only of Reno. But, of course, I'm in Nevada!"

"You're just across the state line. I've checked it. So all you have to do is to drive over to Reno—won't take you an hour—and see Rogers' lawyer and establish your legal residence. He's George Hammersmith, and Rogers phoned him last night when we got through talking. Then six weeks from now, my darling, you and Rogers and I will drive to Reno, and all the family can come along later for the wedding."

"Oh, Andy," said Dina, "is it coming right this time?"

"It would seem so. If you could see Elmover you'd think so. All I've done is have a few fallen trees cut up for my wife's firewood next Winter."

"Can you imagine a sultana or a begum with ropes of emeralds and pearls from here to that inlet?" Dina said, standing now, her young sleek figure silhouetted against the last of the warm light in the West.

"Why should I?"

"Because I want you to know that I wouldn't change places with her! Ah, you can dive," Dina said enviously as he poised himself beside her, "but I have to slide in like a baby."

"I'll teach you to dive tomorrow. We have all the tomorrows from now on," Andy reminded her.

She did not answer in words. But with a quick movement she was close to him, his arms about her, her beautiful mane of hair had fallen back, her lips against his.

For a long moment they strained together hungrily, as if the kiss never would be done. They they were swimming together toward the shore.

Dina swam close to Andy. Presently she put a hand on his shoulder. It was good, even so near to the safe shallow water, to feel him strong and steady beside her

THE END.

To Be Tried for Public Mischief

PORT WILLIAM, June 23 (CP).—Andrew Kosliuk, fifty-eight-year-old sectionman of Pawtek, Ont., held on a charge of causing "public mischief," today was committed for trial at the next session of competent jurisdiction at a preliminary court hearing before Magistrate C. D. Lemay.

The decision was handed down after Kosliuk, central figure in a saboteur hunt after he had told police of an attempt to wreck the Canadian Pacific Railway's Montreal-Vancouver flyer, May 30, had been remanded twice.

Twice wounded in the shoulder, Kosliuk said he had been shot from ambush while replacing spikes torn from a section of track near Pawtek, nineteen miles west of here.

Two days of investigation ended when Inspector William C. Ingram, of the Ontario Provincial Police, charged the sectionman could not have been shot in the manner described. He was then charged with "public mischief."

Y.M.C.A. Vacation Club

For those boys who are unable to attend the Y.M.C.A. Camp at Glinz Lake, there will be a camp in the city from July 6 to 23. This Vacation Club will have a daily programme from 9 to 5, with two hours at home for lunch.

The city campers will meet at the "Y" Building each morning for chapel, hobbies, games and swimming. In the afternoons there will be hikes, softball games, ending a busy day with another swim in the pool at the "Y." Those who cannot swim will have the opportunity of learning during this three-week period. Boys between the ages of seven and seventeen are invited to attend. There is no fee for "Y" members, it was stated.

A.R.P. Drills Well

Drilling from 8 to 10 o'clock last night, Saanich Division of the A.R.P. showed marked progress, especially in the degree of co-ordination between the police and fire departments and civilian members of the unit. Timing was said to be much better and each worker is rapidly obtaining a better knowledge of his individual job, it was stated by an officer of the organization in that area.

Medically Unfit May Now Join Up

VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP).—Air force headquarters announced today that a limited number of men, previously turned down as medically unfit owing to a certain type of hernia, now may enlist for air crew. The announcement said an operation will be performed on these men after enlistment, thus qualifying them for training.
